PROF. NEWCOMB SHE HAD $7000

Woman Was Found in a Doorway in New York

NEW YORK, July 12.—A small fortune in money and gems has been discovered secreted in the clothing of Elizabeth Donegan, the mysterious woman who was found last Thursday night by a patrolman crouching in a doorway and was sent to the observation ward of the Kings county hospital by Magistrate Furlong of the Gate avenue court.

The woman was hungry and apparently penniless, but at the hospital house the matron found $350 hidden about her clothing, and the nurses at the hospital discovered, sewn next to her corsets, two bank books showing deposits of more than $500, $655.52 in each, 19 unset diamonds, a gold watch and chain and other jewelry.

The woman said she was a servant. It was learned yesterday that about 50 years ago Elizabeth Donegan worked as a servant in the family of Mrs. Caroline Schilling, now dead, at 22 Marion street, for $3 a month. As she worked for that small amount more than 22 years, relatives of Mrs. Schilling cannot understand how the servant could have accumulated nearly $700 besides valuable jewelry.

Mrs. Schilling's family consisted of Jacob, two sons, George and Joseph, and her two daughters, now married, Mrs. Andrew Earl and Mrs. Frederick Fitzgerald of Hackensack, N. J.

When Mrs. Schilling was about to die, members of the family say the servant was called in by George Schilling to witness her will. It bequeathed to the son George all of her estate, consisting of the Marion street home and two bank books. Only one bank book was found. The other heirs fought the will, but lost their case. George Schilling has since died.

Mr. Earl, son-in-law of Mrs. Schilling, said yesterday that he and his wife had visited the Kings county hospital and that Elizabeth Donegan had told them that George Schilling gave her the gold watch and other jewelry. Where she got the $7000 the old servant failed to explain, but the Earls intend to question her again today.

Mr. Earl said that when Mrs. Schilling died in 1905 her home was searched for money and only $50 was found. This was hidden behind a picture frame. Fifteen or 20 years ago the Schilling brothers supplied her with money every month, but there was apparently nothing to show for it, and the sons wondered.

Elizabeth Donegan, the servant, was faithful and thrifty. After Mrs. Schilling died she stayed in the house for a few years. When the house was broken up she went to work for a Mrs. White at $2 a month.

Only a week ago Elizabeth Donegan called at Mrs. Earl's home and asked for food and lodging. There was no room in the house, but Mrs. Earl gave her food and a place to sleep in another house. She was in a pitiable condition and made the Earls smile by asking that work be sent to Mr. Higgins of Halcyon, L. I., that she wanted him to witness her will. She wanted to make one, she said, because relatives were trying to get her wealth. She left the next day and nothing was heard of her until she was sent to the hospital.

TO ROB SAFE

TWO ATTEMPTS MADE AT ASHAWAY, R. I.

ASHAWAY, R. I., July 12.—Two attempts were made to blow open the safe in the Ashaway National bank building here early this morning, but the men were frightened away by the loud reports and secured nothing. Towns people were awakened by two heavy explosions between 1 and 2 o'clock this morning and some of them looked out their windows to see what was the matter. The sight of a man standing in front of the bank building with a brace of heavy pistols kept anyone from trying to go outside. Some three hours later an investigation was made and it was found that the outer door of the safe was twisted and torn, but that the three inner doors were intact. Burglar tools of the finest quality were scattered around the door. The local officials would not say how much money was in the vault but they admitted that there was over $5000.

ANITA STEWART, WHO IS TO WED PRINCE MIGUEL OF PORTUGAL

LONDON, July 12.—The Austrian Embassy here has announced the engagement of Prince Miguel of Braganza, eldest son of Duke Michael, the pretender to the Portuguese throne, to Miss Anita Stewart, daughter of Mrs. James Henry Smith of New York. Prince Miguel is the grandson of King Manuel of Portugal. His name has been mentioned in connection with three other American heiresses in the past few months. Prince Miguel of Braganza was born at Richmond, Lower Austria, on Sept. 12, 1878. He is the son of Duke Michael and his first wife, Princess Elizabeth of Thurn and Taxis, whom he married in 1907. Miss Anita Stewart is the daughter of Mrs. James Henry Smith of New York. She was formerly the wife of William Russell Stewart, a well-known American financier, who died in 1907. She has been mentioned in connection with three other American heiresses in the past few months. Prince Miguel of Braganza was born at Richmond, Lower Austria, on Sept. 12, 1878. THE LATE PROF. SIMON NEWCOMB

The World's Leading Astronomer is Dead

WASHINGTON, July 12.—Prof. Simon Newcomb, the astronomer, died at his home in this city early yesterday at the age of 74.

Prof. Newcomb will be buried with military honors in Arlington cemetery next Wednesday. High officials of the government will attend the funeral and the honorary pallbearers will include many prominent men in public life. The body will lie in state Monday and Tuesday at the family residence.

Prof. Newcomb is survived by his wife, a daughter of the late Dr. Hensler, surgeon, U. S. N., and three daughters, Dr. Anita Newcomb McGee of Washington, Mrs. Francis Wilson of New York and Mrs. Edward Whitney of New York.

Prof. Newcomb was recognized by the entire scientific world as the leading astronomer of his time, and the one great authority on the motion of the moon. As a mathematician he was almost as eminent as an astronomer. There is today not an astronomer living who does not base his calculations upon Newcomb's tables of the movements of the planets and the moon, and there is not a ship that sails the seas which is not guided by his measurements of the solar system.

REV. DR. BARTLETT VISITED HOTELS

Preached at Kirk Street Church. Simon B. Harris Warned Hotel Keepers

Rev. William A. Bartlett, D. D., of Chicago, occupied the pulpit at the Kirk Street church, yesterday, and will occupy it next Sunday and the Sunday after. Dr. Bartlett is a former pastor of the Kirk Street church and he is always glad to come and speak to his old friends. His subject yesterday was "The Open Door." He pointed out the many doors of opportunity that the Christian church has for the extension of its work.

Sermon of the week being carried on in his Chicago church, he said that financially it was not as strong as the Kirk Street church, since its former congregation had largely moved away with the changing conditions in the life of the great city, and yet it had established a work of the greatest importance among the unchurched and those in lowly circumstances, and was able to finance it because men there looked upon the church as a good financial investment, and were willing to put money into it in order that it might extend its sphere of influence along humanitarian as well as purely theological lines.

STOLE HIS ROLL

New Friends Robbed Man of $200

BOSTON, July 12.—Grant Brent, a rangy lumberman from New Hampshire, while sightseeing yesterday met three men who apparently were interested in his welfare. They immediately acted as his guide and when they unceremoniously left him Brent found that his roll of $200 had gone.

Grant got busy right away and with a keen alertness rounded up one of the men, grabbing the latter by the arm he held him until Patrolman Delaney came him under arrest.

At Station 4 the arrested man gave the name of William Cunningham, 31, who says he lives in North Attleboro, Mass. In the thought that he had at least raised the arrest of one of the men, Brent left the station in search of the other two. Up to a late hour last night they had not been arrested.

Brent told the police that he had gone to several calls with the three men and that they had an interesting chat about the game of cards and the market for it in Boston. Everything went along smoothly he says until the corner of Washington and Hope streets was reached. Then one of the trio suggested that Brent step into the doorway as he wished to speak privately with him. As Brent to the police this was the signal for the other two men to move upon the stranger. While one man watched the side of the doorway and then abstracted his roll.

PRES. TAFT

WILL MAKE EXTENDED WESTERN TRIP THIS FALL

WASHINGTON, July 12.—Indications multiply that President Taft's announced itinerary for his western and southern trip this fall will be materially extended. The president himself did not include in the tentative list which was published at the places where he expected to stop long enough to make an address and hold a brief reception. The itinerary was made up of those cities where the president will spend from one to three days.

Strong efforts will be made by congressmen and state officials to have the president stop for a few minutes, at least, at nearly all of the towns of appreciable size through which his train will pass in the daylight hours. Already the president has been bombarded with such requests. He has suggested to all of his callers and correspondents that they save the matter up with him later in the summer when the plans for the trip are actually under consideration.

During the trip he has made thus far, the president has adhered to the policy of journeying in a single private car attached to regular trains. The times have been comparatively short, however, and on them the president has been bothered with as little public business as possible.

Secretary Carpenter has remained behind in the White House to look after routine affairs and has communicated with the president at rare intervals.

On his far-western trip, a special will be absolutely essential if the president is to make stops at any of the smaller cities which dot the way between the larger centres of population, which he already has announced his intention of visiting.

The president expects to be away for two months on this trip and will have to carry a complement of stenographers, clerks and telegraphers in addition to his secretaries. Thus far the presidential party has been confined to the chief executive, Captain Archibald W. Butt, his military aide, Assistant Secretary Mitchell, Maj. Arthur Brooke, who in addition to being the president's confidential messenger, is commanding officer of the First separate battalion of colored troops in the District of Columbia; and two secret service men—James Sloan, who was with President Roosevelt for seven years, and Jack Wheeler, who accompanied Mr. Taft from the time of his election to office.

AN ARMED MOB

Tried to Take Charge of Prisoner

DETROIT, July 12.—Armed with shotguns, ropes, revolvers and other weapons, a mob of 500 enraged men tried to take Frank Bradley, accused of attacking 17 year old Mary Oberitzious from Deputy Sheriff Louis Lubs yesterday, for the purpose of wreaking summary vengeance on the prisoner. The officer, after a lively fight, landed his prisoner in the jail at Oakwood, a suburb of this city. The girl was attacked as she was passing some bushes. She fought bravely and escaped, although in the battle several of her teeth were knocked out. She reported the attack to the police, accusing Bradley, who was captured after a chase of nearly two miles. On the way to the lockup the mob appeared.

THE HOLDING COMPANY.

And now comes John L. Billard who deposes that no holding company can take away from him the 110,000 shares of Boston and Maine stock in his possession. No such company can ever buy the stock, says Mr. Billard, unless at the price which he sees fit to ask. What then has this holding company provided by the Massachusetts legislature got to hold?

LOWER CONCORD A MENACE TO HEALTH.

Unless something be done to clear the lower Concord river of the accumulations of filth that have choked the stream it may soon cease pestilence to spread throughout the city. This river is the outlet for sewers, for the scourings of mills, the rendering works, the tannery of the American Hide and Leather company and various other factories. For years the accumulations of filth have been growing until now when the water is low, they are a veritable menace to the public health. The river has received no attention for many years, all kinds of junk, sewage and offal being dumped into it in the meantime. Below the Rogers street bridge there is a ridge of filth in the middle of the river on which grass and weeds are growing. The mud or gatherings are piled as high as the dam in the rear of Scripture's laundry.

The dangerous state of the river is shown by the fact that boys who went in bathing there during the hot spell were poisoned and a number of them are now under medical treatment. The city authorities are responsible for the condition of this river and its injurious effect upon the public health. If it be not the duty of the city to provide a remedy, then the corporations responsible for the present condition of the river should be compelled to clear the stream of the ever increasing obstructions or else leave sufficient water at all times to cover the entire bed of the river below the Rogers street bridge. The city itself by emptying its sewers into that river is partly responsible for the accumulations but not for locking up the water at any time during the week.

It is noticeable that the river is much lower on Sundays than during the week. From this it appears that the water is dammed up and turned into the canals in order to hoard the water power for the ensuing week. That should not be tolerated. Why menace the public health in order to effect a slight saving in power for certain companies along the banks of the river?

What the people would like to know is, how long will they have to endure this nuisance or will it be allowed to continue until it causes an epidemic?

REWARD OF MERIT IN THE FACTORIES.

Editor Sun: I wish to thank you for your editorial of Friday last in which you say that one of the things the mills must do if they want to beat the south is to reward merit among their help. You never said a truer thing in your life for the way things go now, there is no inducement to anybody to improve. It is favoritism and not merit that rules and this is bad for the mills and bad for the operatives. It serves only the favored few at the expense of the company. Hoping you will give us more on this subject.

Respectfully Yours,

M.H. Operative.

It is very evident that the mill in which there is no inducement to improve will never attain excellence in any line. When an employee who has been working for years with a view to promotion finds somebody else brought in to fill a vacancy that he should fill as a reward of years of faithful work, he naturally loses interest in the success of the factory. He does not care whether it wins or loses. The only interest he can feel consists in looking upon it as a means of earning a mere livelihood. How different would be the feel if he found his faithful service rewarded by promotion whenever a vacancy occurs which he is qualified to fill. This question of encouraging self-improvement among the operatives by recognizing merit is one of vast importance to the factories and to the people. It is one of the things upon which the success of the factory largely depends. Only let the operatives understand that those who work hard to improve their efficiency in their respective lines will thereby improve their chances of advancement, and there will be a steady endeavor to do better work. This will result in a gradual improvement in the general efficiency of all the operatives and of course in turning out more perfect work. But let the operatives feel as do three-fourths of them at the present time, that the doors to promotion are barred against them, that it is useless for them to improve their minds, useless to attend night school or the evening Textile school, useless to strive upward where merit is never rewarded, and what will be the result? Carelessness in work, carelessness in the use of machinery and tools, carelessness everywhere, disregard of the company's interests and neglect of their own natural endowments.

It is universally acknowledged that if we do not try to improve we shall in consequence deteriorate or go backward. Is it not then a serious mistake for the management of any mill to enter no incentive to the great mass of operatives to strive for excellence in the various lines of work on which they are employed? This is to prevent progress, to encourage retrogression and decay. It is one of the last hopes that a textile factory employing thousands of hands can afford to entertain. The superintendent or the boss who gathers about him a lot of his favorites, selected not because of superior skill but because he can place them where they get good money for a minimum of skill and labor, is not the kind of man who will benefit the mill. Still worse is it to throw out employees who through a long period of years have been faithful and efficient and devoted to the company's interests. That excites the indignation of all the other operatives who realize in the change an unjustifiable act of injustice. Many a mill has been put upon the downward grade because of this very work, for the reason that the rank and file of the operative feel that their merit is never rewarded, that they have reached the highest they can ever attain and that it is useless to aspire to anything better, useless to hope for recognition of faithful service, for excellence in work or advancement in technical skill.

At a time when our textile factories are beset with strong competition from the south, would it not be well for them to give their operatives a real and live interest in the work by rewarding merit either with promotion or increase of wages and thus offer to all operatives an incentive to self-improvement and the attainment of higher skill and excellence in their chosen work.

SEEN AND HEARD

There has been much discussion in the courts and elsewhere relative to the definition of whiskey, and while we believe that a good definition for it would be "A good thing to let alone," the following more scientific definition, taken from Pharmaceutical Lexicon, a dictionary of pharmaceutical sciences, etc., may be of greater value and more acceptable to the interested and curious: Spiritus Frumenti (Whiskey)—Spirit obtained from fermented grain by distillation, and containing from forty-eight to fifty-six per cent. absolute alcohol. It should be free from disagreeable odor, and not less than two years old.

THE TWO BONNETS

The bonnet of eighteen fifty-one—
And the bonnet of nineteen-nine—
What would they say if they changed to meet,
And what would I choose for mine?
Fashions change and the shapes are old,
But the faces beneath the brim,
Ah, they are the same in the sweetest heart flame
As they were in the days grown dim!

Under the bonnet of fifty-one—
The eyes that were twinkling then
Had the dear same look when their beams o'ertook
The gleam in the hearts of men:
The old time faces were still
With youth and the eyes of blue,
And now wrote riddles to old-time bonnets
As men now write to the new!

One of the bonnets of fifty-one—
I saw it the other day,
With its faded bows and its old primrose
And the little silk ribbons of gray;
Under the attic parter, hung,
Through the shadows I saw it gleam
And out of the shadows she danced
And sang—
The lass of my boyhood dream!

It is reported from Ottawa that her excellency, Lady Grey, and Captain Newton, A. D. C., are all with scarlet fever at government house, but that both are making favorable progress. The disease was contracted during Lady Grey's visit to Toronto attending the International Woman's Council, on which she was accompanied by Captain Newton. It developed on the return journey.

J. M. Barrie's modesty and shrinking from personal publicity are such well-known traits of his character that it will hardly surprise his friends to learn that he has refused a title. When the recently announced royal birthday honors were being arranged, the author of "Peter Pan" was set down for a knighthood. Barrie, who is a friend of King's, might aptly have quoted the latter's banial about the man who wouldn't have them several good reasons for declining the proffered honor, politely but firmly. "I don't go in for that sort of thing," was the way in which he dismissed the matter. There are unkind persons who say that the distinction was offered to Barrie only after Barrie had refused it, but there are several good reasons for declining this statement, among them, the fact that the author of "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray" was slated for a knighthood at last year's royal birthday distribution, but the nomination did not go through.

Miss Ethel Stowe, daughter of the Rev. C. D. Stowe, formerly of Bridgewater, and a grand-daughter of William Beecher Stowe, will make her debut on the professional stage with William Crookham in "Herod" in the fall. When a little girl residing in Freiburg, Germany, she impersonated "Hansel and Gretchen" and later in Switzerland she appeared in scenes from several plays in an amateur performance. When a student at Smith college she appeared as "Lancelotti" in "The Merchant of Venice" and as Puck in "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

Urged by her relatives to attack a divorce granted in Illinois 12 years ago, Mrs. Hanna Douglas, an aged and infirm resident of Los Angeles, will be applied in a few days that the supreme court of the state of Washington has denied she is neither the wife nor the widow of the late Helen L. Douglas, who died in Spokane in 1900, leaving a valuable estate. They were married in Michigan in 1853 and separated five years afterward, when Douglas went to Illinois, where he instituted an action for divorce, alleging desertion. The records show the decree was granted. Douglas came to the northwest in 1888 and located on a homestead in Spokane county. He was killed in a runaway accident two years later, when his daughter and her husband, George W. Taylor, began to develop the farm, making it a valuable property. To establish her claim Mrs. Douglas alleged she never heard of the divorce until after her husband's death, asserting that it was void because it had not been signed and that it was procured by fraud. The supreme court ruled that it now is too late to attack the divorce, thus awarding the estate to Mrs. Taylor.

Bullet Entered Providence Man's Heart

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 12.—Brooding over the alleged cruel treatment of his wife by her husband, Alfred Mancini, Philip Diener, shot and fatally injured Mancini, one of the wealthiest Italians in the city, last night. The shooting occurred at Diener's home, 8 Baker street, and in the presence of his mother, brother and three sisters, one of whom was his victim's wife. Mancini then started to run, but his brother-in-law fired again, this time with deadly effect, the bullet piercing his heart and causing almost instant death.

CONNERS BROS.

WON SUIT BROUGHT BY MERRILL

CO. OF BOSTON

A suit brought by the Merrill company of Boston, against the Connors Brothers Construction Company of Lowell, has been decided in favor of the Lowell firm. The Merrill company brought a suit for $20,000 for balance alleged to be due them on a contract for heating and ventilating apparatus in the Connors company court house in Uden, N. Y., they being subcontractors for Connors Brothers, general contractors. The Connors Brothers Co., set up a counter claim, but the case was submitted to Samuel K. Hamilton, Esq., and Joseph Wiggin, Esq., of Boston, and Frank E. Dunder, Esq., of Lowell, as arbitrators. The agreement that judgment should be final. The arbitrators on Friday filed in the superior court at East Cambridge their award, which finds in favor of the Connors Brothers Construction Co., on their counter claim, in the sum of $24,212. Elder & Whitman of Boston appeared for the Merrill Company. Albert S. Howard of Lowell for Connors Brothers.

BATTLE FOUGHT

BETWEEN COSSACKS AND ROY.

ALISTS NEAR TEHRAN

TEHRAN, Persia, July 12.—Persian Cossacks, commanded by Russian officers, and other troops of the shah, have fought a battle with a mob of about 2000 men, who attacked yesterday morning upon the United Nationalists' forces, under Si-pander and Sadrasad, at a point 15 miles from Tehran.

Although the Royalists shelled the Nationalists' position with four guns for four hours, the latter did not give way. Two hundred of the Cossacks advanced to within half a mile of the Nationalists, keeping up a heavy fire with machine and quick fire. The Nationalists replied at intervals with a single gun, dropping a number of shells among the Cossacks and compelling them to retire.

No information has been received here as to the number of casualties.

FATAL JUMP

BAKER OF STR. PLYMOUTH WAS

DROWNED AT PROVIDENCE

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 12.—While trying to jump from the deck of the steamer Plymouth of Providence line to the dock at 9:30 last evening, John Ellis, colored, the boiler of the vessel, missed his footing, fell overboard and was drowned. Ellis was 35 years old and a native of Barre, Vt. He had been in the city for some time, having come from New London with a large cargo of excelsior, and was being made fast to the dock at Fox Point when the accident occurred. The body has not been recovered.

NEGRO WILL DIE PICTURE SHOWS

He Was Shot by Young Girl

NEW YORK, July 12.—Mary Leppin, a young girl, 20 years old, walked up behind Joseph Thompson, a West Indian negro youth, in a down town apartment house where he ran the elevator, and shattered his spine yesterday with a bullet. She fired four shots, three of which lodged in the negro's body. The girl, who became hysterical after the shooting, said that she did it because Thompson refused to care for her. The negro will die.

HEAVY STORM

THOUSANDS OF SMALL FROGS

COVERED THE SIDEWALK

UTICA, N. Y., July 12.—A message received last night from Gouverneur says that in a heavy wind and rain storm there thousands of small but perfectly formed frogs fell covering the sidewalk in Grove street to such an extent that walking was difficult. The rains on the Rome, Watertown & Ogdensburg division of the New York Central railroad for half a mile were covered and rendered so slippery that the speed of the train was materially lessened.

MELROSE, July 12.—Attended by many well known personages in the baseball world, the funeral of Frank G. Selee, formerly manager of the Boston Nationals and the Chicago Nationals, who died in Denver, Col., Monday, was held yesterday in the First Methodist Episcopal church here, where Mr. Selee attended as a young man. The services were conducted by Rev. W. T. Pomeroy, pastor of the church, assisted by Rev. F. M. Pickles of Cambridge.

HISTORIC PAGEANT AT GENEVA

GENEVA, Switzerland, July 12.—A historic pageant, representing the growth of science and literature in the 14th and 15th centuries, brought to a close Geneva's ten day celebration of the 400th anniversary of the birth of John Calvin. The festival was the whole world's for the nations of the world, though their representatives, united in according homage to the memory of the great thinker, writer and reformer.

AT LOS ANGELES

The Boston Elks' Party

Arrived Yesterday

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 12.—With the white dust of the desert still clinging to their clothes, the Boston herd of Elks came rolling into the Salt Lake station last night, some hours overdue. This latestness has been the fate of almost every delegation, says those from the Pacific coast, that has arrived here so far. But if the Boston men were behind time and tired with the long ride they did not show it.

Greets by members of the reception committee and the famous white powder for the nose in tan uniforms, the New Englanders were taken to their quarters. The band played "Yankee Doodle" as the start was made.

There was music galore and it was a tossup which made the most noise, the Elks from the Bay state or the Elks from the sunny southern California city.

Today will be devoted to taking in the sights of Los Angeles and on Tuesday the delegates will get down to business of the grand lodge.

It was whispered both before and after the arrival of the Boston delegation that there was a division in the ranks on the question of the successor to Grand Exalted Ruler Holland. If this is so, none of the members would admit it, but smiled and waved a genial hand, as though to intimate that strife was not in their calculations.

It is almost certain that Boston will be forced to fight for the seat of the Exalted Ruler. The contest the latter are going to make for the grand lodge meeting in 1911. This campaign promises to be lively and Boston representatives more or less the sentiment of the contingent from all New England. It is expected that the Boston Elks will be the most numerous delegation from the Maritime city and their rivals from St. Louis.

TROOPS CALLED

To Quell the Riot at

Sydney

SYDNEY, C. E., July 12.—Unable to cope with the lawlessness of strike men at the Inverness railway yesterday, Mayor D. H. McLeod was forced to call troops from England to restore order. The foremost railway strike was being led by the firm of MacKenzie & Mann, which is not connected in any way with the Dominion Coal company, against which the Glace Bay strike is aimed. The United Mine Workers of America, and they went out on a semi-strike last Friday.

The men of the Provincial Workmen's Association, organized at work in the mines last Saturday when they were having the workers for their home, they were met by a crowd of strikers, men and women, mostly Irishmen, who armed them with various weapons. Seven after strikes and some began to be and one Provincial workman working was struck on the head of the head and received bad cuts.

The mayor and members of the town council, with thirty special and regular police, tried in vain to keep the crowd in order. The disturbance continued until the workmen had gained the station at Inverness.

Yesterday when General Manager Murray of the railway arrived in town he asked that troops be sent to quell the riot and the mayor complied with the request. Last evening a special train from Halifax arrived with 150 men from the royal Canadian regiment who at once went on guard duty at the railway. There were no further disturbances about the place last night.

The strike situation at the Glace Bay mines remained quiet yesterday.

Their Tendencies Discussed by Rev. Mr. Craig

At the First Presbyterian church Sunday morning, the pastor, Rev. J. M. Craig, in a prelude to his sermon, spoke of the recent meeting to protest against the opening of theatres and picture shows in this city on Sundays. "When such large cities as New York and Chicago, after years of experience," said Mr. Craig, "have come to the conclusion that the moral tone of the people had not been benefited, but the contrary, where they were now fighting to close such places, it becomes the citizens of such a city as Lowell to guard the morality and religious liberty of its young people at the very outset."

"We see in the papers, and hear the declarations of clergymen, that they did not like the methods of the Law and order league. Yet I have never heard any specific reason why they dislike those methods, nor have I ever heard expressed any improvement of those methods, adopted by a number of highly educated men after careful consideration, and which have been productive of much good to our city, even that has been conceded by many of our citizens."

Mr. Craig then spoke from Ps. 84:10: "I had rather be a door-keeper in the house of my God than dwell in tents of wickedness." He said in part: Last Sabbath I spoke on Patriotism. Today I want to speak on Good Citizenship. First, we want to recognize five essential points to good citizenship: personal liberty, family, free press, free schools, and free church. Under despotic government, those five points are very limited; all are subject to the whims of one man power. Education is neglected, no extended liberty is granted to school, church or press; hence we find an inferior people nationally, and individually. Progress is slow compared to the countries where liberty is fundamental to the government.

Under the monarchical government we find the highest classes only are expected to be highly educated. We don't put ships in the care of men who know nothing of navigation. The government of a nation is not given to the ignorant. John Knox was right in saying: "It must be an educated man who can govern other men." Every man should have liberty of conscience. The press is another essential to our intelligent republic. The papers bring all important matters before the people, so they may understand and intelligently. Each member of the nation is bringing his wisdom to the aid of the questions of the day are decided. The press brings those important matters into every home in the land. A university, as we can see by its very name, not one or two men's knowledge, but a universal collection of knowledge, each educated man bringing his own mind to the wisdom of millions of others, in teaching our young men and women. The child is taught to walk and not to put its hand in the fire until the mind is expanded to receive the highest education; it is all a question of progress.

The church goes hand in hand with good citizenship. Church and school are later in moral and intellectual, the former in spiritual progress. If the school did not teach mathematics, we should have few astronomers, engineers or inventors. The law schools teach justice, the medical the care of our bodies, the laws of health, etc. By mostness, had an impediment in his speech, which he conquered by putting pebbles in his mouth until he could swallow the masses with his eloquence. Sir Walter Scott, the greatest story writer the world has known, passed through a tedious drill, until the clock struck the right hour, and then he gave the world his treasures.

"Some of us take up a volume of history and read through the different ages, only to find that history is a connected whole of the progress of the world. Here is a vine planted in a certain city, but its branches reach across the country. During these twenty centuries of the Christian era mighty cities have been built and have crumbled; empires have been established and have vanished. The Christian church is eternally young, eternally strong, eternally beautiful. And so in all things connected with the church of Christ."

BIG RIOTS

REPORTED FROM LA PASE

BOLIVIA

LA PASE, Bolivia, July 11.—La Pase was given over last night to riots. The people swarmed into the streets and did much damage. The electric light wires were cut and pillaging was begun on all sides. Shots were heard in every direction. The situation for foreigners, especially Peruvian, and Argentine residents, is extremely serious. The guards protecting the Peruvian and Argentine legations were suddenly withdrawn Sunday evening, for some unknown reason. When this became known street mobs renewed their attacks on the legations, causing serious damage.

The Argentine minister, Senor Ponce, and his wife, had a narrow escape from injury. They made their way out of the legation and ran a distance of eight blocks, finally seeking protection in the home of the president of Bolivia.

It is reported here that considerable excitement prevails in Lima and Buenos Ayres, and the Argentine government's silence in the face of Bolivian protests is regarded as ominous.

HAVE WE A POLICE BOARD?

NIGHT EDITION CATHOLIC EDUCATORS

Including Nuns to Meet in Convention at Boston

Nearly all the nuns teaching in the local parochial schools have gone to Boston to attend the sixth annual convention of the Catholic Educational association which is to be held in Boston college, tomorrow, Wednesday and Thursday. The attendance and scope of the convention has been greatly enlarged this year through the efforts of Archbishop O'Connell.

Many of the delegates arrived in Boston yesterday, prominent among them being Rt. Rev. Denis J. O'Connell, bishop auxiliary of San Francisco, formerly rector of the Catholic university at Washington and president general of the educational association.

The bishop reached Boston about 5 yesterday afternoon and went to the Hotel Lenox, the headquarters of delegates. He seemed in the best of health and though tired from his long trip from California said that he is ready to take up the work of the convention.

He left San Francisco just a week ago and came by way of Washington, where he stopped for a short visit to the university, where he was cordially received. Afterward he went to Baltimore and there was the guest of Cardinal Gibbons, who, he says, is enthusiastic over the work done by the educational association.

"The cardinal," said Bishop O'Connell, "is honorary president of the association and feels a deep interest in its work. He told me that he expects that this convention, held in Boston, the acknowledged center of education of America, will prove most beneficial to the cause of education. The cardinal is in perfect health and seems very active."

Pres. Gasson has been busy getting Boston college ready for the meetings of the convention, which start there tomorrow morning. Everything is now ready for the delegates.

This afternoon, at 3, the executive board of the association will hold a meeting in the Hotel Lenox. Most of the delegates will arrive today, to be in time for the reception to be given them by Archbishop O'Connell and Bishop O'Connell tonight in Catholic Union hall.

The committee of women which has been active in arranging for the reception of delegates, held a meeting yesterday afternoon in Catholic Union hall to make final plans. Miss Lila McMahon, chairman of the committee, presided.

The Lowell delegates while in Boston will make their headquarters at the different houses of their respective orders in and around Boston.

WENT TO PRISON

LONDON, July 12.—Fifteen of the suffragettes who during the raid on the house of commons, June 29, broke windows with stones hidden in brown paper parcels, went to prison for a month today rather than pay the fines inflicted by the magistrate, Sir Albert Derutten, the Bow street magistrate. Sir Albert commented severely upon the lamentable spectacle of respectable women in the dock on charges usually associated with juvenile hoodlums. The suffragettes, most of whom made short speeches, claimed that their offenses were purely political. The course of Premier Asquith in refusing to receive their petition, they said, had made militant action necessary, and if the women were in the wrong, Home Secretary Gladstone, War Secretary Haldane and John Burns, president of the local government board, who had incited them by taunting them with the statement that they were using "pin prick methods," ought to be beside them in the dock.

UNUSUAL HONORS ACCORDED

WASHINGTON, July 12.—A misapprehension of the practice of the army and navy in regard to the burial of officers who commit suicide is given in official circles by an answer to the report that unusual honors were accorded Lieut. James N. Sutton, United States marine corps, whose death at Annapolis in 1907 is soon to be investigated for the second time.

It is declared that the universal practice is to accord military honors to an officer who takes his own life and in the case of Lieut. Sutton it is maintained that the authorities at Annapolis follow long established precedents.

Of the Grand Lodge of Elks

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 12.—Elks by the thousands flocked to Pasadena early today, the first entertainment provided for the members of the organization now gathered in this city for the annual reunion of the grand lodge taking place there this morning. The grand lodge members and their escorts were provided with automobiles and after a trip over the city, were deposited at Tournament park, where athletics, chariot races and feats of horsemanship were provided for their entertainment. At noon a monster barbecue was served and following this there was a realistic stage hold-up enacted. This afternoon a number of athletic events are being held at Ascot park in this city, and thousands of the visitors were attracted there, while others are enjoying themselves at the seashore.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—An armistice has been declared in the Colombian revolution pending a conference between George H. Quinn, the acting president, and Gonzales Valencia, whom the opposition element is urging for the office. This information reached the state department today.

The Old Board Is Out, But Is The New Board In?

THE LAW NOT COMPLIED WITH

Have we a police board in Lowell? That's the question.

Although Mayor Brown has appointed a new police board to succeed the old, it is a legal question whether he has yet fulfilled the requirements of the law in providing a new board for the city of Lowell.

The law calls for a board of three members representing both political parties. Mayor Brown's board consists of but two members representing but one political party.

The act constituting the board, states that the board of police shall consist of three members who shall be sworn to the faithful performance of their duty. Of the three gentlemen appointed by Mayor Brown only two have qualified, so that we have not as yet a police board of three members sworn to the faithful performance of their duty as the law requires.

Hon. Charles S. Lilley has not qualified as a member of the police board and is, therefore, not yet a member although appointed by Mayor Brown. No man can be a member of the police board legally with the power to do business until he has qualified according to law. Had all three members qualified, two being a majority could transact business, but where only two have qualified according to the meaning and import of the act constituting the board, it is questionable whether they have a legal right to act as a police board.

It is further required by the act of the legislature that both political parties shall be represented on the board. Hon. Charles S. Lilley is supposed to be the democratic member while Simon B. Harris and Winfred C. MacBrayne are the republican members. On this point also it would appear that the intent of the law has not been carried out, as but one political party is thus far represented on the board.

This is a question that will have to be decided without delay inasmuch as the two members who have qualified on the board are assuming all the authority vested in the full police board for the transaction of business.

The old board is out, but is the new board in? If not, then we have no police board in Lowell at the present time.

AWARDED MEDAL

Charles A. Lyle Saved Life of 12-Year-Old Boy

For saving the life of 12-year old Paul McCaffrey, the Massachusetts Humane society has presented to Charles A. Lyle, of 137 Stackpole street a medal and a button. The medal is of silver, properly engraved, and the button bears the society's seal. It is but recently that the society adopted the plan of giving the button in addition to the medal. The medal occupies a solid leather case and is very pretty. It was in July 1908 that Charles Arthur Lyle, then 14 years old, leaped into the race way near the tannery in Howe street and saved young McCaffrey. The latter was stricken with cramps and was going down for the third time when young Lyle went to the rescue. After a hard struggle, Lyle managed to reach the shore, though he was pretty much all in when he landed. It was one of the most heroic acts on the part of a boy so young ever witnessed in Lowell.

Charles Arthur Lyle is the son of James E. Lyle, the Central street jeweler. Arthur and his mother are spending the summer at Summerside, P. E. I.

THE THAW CASE

Fight for Release From Asylum Begun in Earnest Today

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., July 12.—Harry K. Thaw's efforts to prove himself a sane man and fit to be released from the Matteawan asylum for the criminal insane was begun in earnest before Supreme Court Justice Mills today. Thaw's mother, Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw, his sister, the former Countess of Yarmouth, and Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Thaw sat near the prisoner during the proceedings. Thaw followed the testimony and frequently coached his lawyer in his questions to the witness. Richard E. Lansing, a real estate dealer of Poughkeepsie, the first witness called, testified that he had conversed with the plaintiff on a variety of subjects at different times and that Thaw always appeared coherent and rational.

Oscar Mulford, another citizen of Poughkeepsie, who was formerly a watchman at the Dutchess county jail, testified that he saw Thaw every night from 7 until 9 o'clock. He had discussed electricity, hydraulics and the construction of reservoirs in the Catskills for New York city frequently with the plaintiff and Thaw showed a clear head on these scientific subjects, the witness said.

Rev. Father Luke Evers, pastor of St. Andrew's Roman Catholic church in New York and chaplain of the Tombs, told of various conversations with the prisoner in the Tombs prior to his commitment to Matteawan. Rev. Father Evers said Thaw displayed a broad knowledge of the criminal law and the history of the church in his conversation with him. John J. Hanley, assistant warden of the Tombs, while Thaw was there, testified that Thaw had interested himself in many of the prisoners and had been permitted to buy them delicacies at times which they would not otherwise have had. Thaw was much interested in sports while in the Tombs, the witness said. Mark Dubois, editor of a Poughkeepsie newspaper, testified that he had often seen and talked with Thaw when he was confined in the Poughkeepsie jail and that the plaintiff appeared to him to act and talk rationally.

What Are Penalty Prices?

"Penalty Prices" is a new advertising term employed by the Merrimack Clothing Co. It means the prices made on winter clothing after Christmas and on summer clothing after the Fourth of July—to move them out at once. They are drastic, unfeeling, and heart-rending to the management, but they are concession prices for the purchasing public and apply in every department.

Severe Penalty for the Merrimack. Our women's store will offer today about 40 tailor made cloth suits, original prices were $23 and $35. The Penalty Price is $9.75.

6 O'CLOCK TELEPHONE MERGER

New Company to Have a Capitalization of $100,000,000

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., July 12.—The meeting of representatives of the independent telephone companies held here last night has been adjourned for several days for the purpose of clearing up all minor details before morning the concerns into the National Telephone Corporation of New York with a capitalization of $100,000,000. It was expected the merger would be accomplished by the end of the week.

BADLY SCARED

LUBEC, Me., July 12.—Great excitement prevailed in town today when it became known that Henry S. Kelley, aged 51, a prominent merchant on Water street, was a probable suicide and that the town had narrowly escaped a serious fire in consequence of his act.

Kelley left home at four a. m. today and not appearing at breakfast his wife became worried as he had been in poor health for two years. Friends were notified and calling at his store they found the entrance locked on the inside. The door was forced open and after a search his body was found in the basement behind a pile of barrels and rubbish. It was lying face up with bullet wounds in the temple and mouth. Two shells had been fired from a revolver which was found on his breast.

Close by the body was a 25-pound can of powder from which the plug had been taken and paper fuse inserted and lighted. Evidently the paper was twisted too tightly as the fuse burned out within an inch of the opening. Had the powder exploded a serious fire probably would have resulted as the store was in the center of a crowded section of wooden buildings.

A coroner decided it unquestionably was a case of suicide. Nothing in the store was disturbed or missing. Kelley conducted a general store, devoted largely to sporting goods and hardware under the name, R. Kelley & Son. He leaves a widow.

BRIBERY IS CHARGED

NARRAGANSETT PIER, R. I., July 12.—James Tourje, Jr., charged on four warrants with bribing or attempting to bribe voters during the recent town election on June 1, in South Kingston, waived examination in the second district court before Judge Lewis this morning and was adjudged probably guilty and bound over to the grand jury in $500 bonds on each case. He furnished bail. The complaints were sworn out by John G. Clark, chairman of the republican town committee, and alleged that Tourje tried to get the men to vote the democratic ticket.

ELECTRIC WIRES CUT

SYDNEY, July 12.—It was reported today that a striker was caught placing obstructions on the railroad near Grace Bay and was arrested. Investigation today brought forth the information that the electric light wires at the Dominion Co.'s colliery, number 3, were cut yesterday, causing a short circuit and throwing the mine into darkness. The severing of the wires is supposed to have been done by the strikers who in some manner made their way through the military sentries and after cutting the wires made their way back without being discovered. As soon as the mine became dark the colliery alarm whistle was blown and the whole mill detachment was turned out. A special train was immediately rushed to the scene and arrangements made to repair the damage.

MAY BE LEON LING

VIENNA, July 12.—A telegram received here today from Budapest declares that Leon Ling, the supposed murderer of Elsie Sigel in New York, is in that city. The message says that the Budapest police received an anonymous communication saying that Ling was staying with a Chinese family and they began a search through the Chinese quarter for him.

WAR IS IMMINENT

VALPARAISO, Chile, July 12.—It is believed here that war between Peru and Bolivia is imminent because of the disorders at Lapa, following the decision handed down by Argentina in the boundary dispute. The Chilean assembly declared today that Chile would remain neutral but she is prepared to protect Chilean interests.

BOSTON PRISONERS

SET TO WORK ON OVERALLS IN JAIL

BOSTON, July 12.—Michael J. INCOME TAX

Vote on Measure This Afternoon

WASHINGTON, July 12.—After agreeing to vote today at 4 o'clock on the joint resolution proposing an amendment to the constitution authorizing the levying of an income tax, regardless of apportionment, among the several states, the house proceeded to discuss the proposition.

"I believe it tends to make a nation of liars," declared Chairman Payne in connection with a statement that he was utterly opposed to such a tax in times of peace. He believed it was the most difficult of enforcement and the hardest to collect. "It is a world," he said, "a tax upon the incomes of honest men and exemption to some extent to the rascals." He hoped it never would be invoked.

GRAND LARCENY
Extradition Papers for Bailey

ALBANY, N. Y., July 12.—Governor Hughes today issued requisition papers on the state of Washington for the return to New York city of Francis G. Bailey, who has been indicted on a charge of grand larceny, first degree. Bailey is charged with having secured under representation from an export shipping company certain articles to be paid for by an Australian company. The goods formed part of a cargo which was shipped to British Honduras.

The governor honored requisitions for the return of three prisoners held in this state and wanted in other states. They are: Mary McGwire, alias Mary Dwyer, under arrest in Syracuse and wanted in Michigan on a charge of larceny; Sam Ramey in custody at Kingston and wanted in Youngstown, O., on a charge of grand larceny; Fred Padmore, under arrest in Albany and wanted in Savin Rock, Conn., on a charge of larceny obtained money under false pretenses.

FINDS SISTER

Who Was Stolen 32 Years Ago

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 12.—The romantic story of a young woman, who, after being taken prisoner by Indians and later being a home with well-to-do people grew up not knowing what her real name was or who her parents were, has come to light here. By the name of the woman, who was discovered by her brother, Francis Kiersey, of No. 1117 Dewey avenue, Los Angeles, the story is told.

The young woman is Isabel Ladd, now living in Joplin, Mo., whose maiden name was Nora Isabel Kiersey, but who was reared to believe it was Isabel Ladd.

The girl had her beginning thirty-two years ago, when her father, leaving California, with her mother and brother, sister, went to the west and had some kind of a band of scouts resisting the Indian invasion. He left the daughter with a family in a small Missouri town.

A month after his departure a band of mounted Indians entered the town and took women and children captives. Among them was little Miss Kiersey, but three years old. Kiersey was shot through the head, and as a result of the wound lost his memory.

Later the Indians fled from the country, leaving behind their prisoners. Young Miss Kiersey was adopted by the family of T. I. Sargent, a farmer, of Joplin. She grew up under their care and was known as the daughter of Sargent. An accident to her father restored his memory and he started to look for the girl. But death interfered and the search was handed over to the son. Through advertisements in the southern and middle western papers, the brother, a policeman in Los Angeles, finally heard of his sister. He tried to communicate with her but she married in the meantime and his letter went unanswered. Two weeks ago he met on the street a man from Joplin. The man lived next door to the Sargents and knew the whereabouts of Miss Kiersey, now a Mrs. Ladd.

FOUGHT FIRE

HOUSE AND BARN ON OLD ESTATE DESTROYED

NEW YORK, July 12.—Fire destroyed a house and barn on the old Cyrus W. Field estate, now owned by J. P. Morgan, near Woodlands Lake, early yesterday. Edward Gorlick and Benjamin Jones saw the flames and aroused James Blundick and his family, who lived in the house.

Thomas Edwards, Charles Fleet and Albert Manders, of New York, who were at the Woodland Hotel, helped in rescuing sixty-five head of cattle on a deer-land horse.

Living Blundick, a son, was burned on the neck and arms. Fleet and Manders were also slightly burned. The loss is about $7000.

ANNUAL PICNIC

OF THE WOLFE TONE GUARDS TO BE HELD

The members of the Wolfe Tone Guards held a meeting yesterday morning and plans were arranged for the annual picnic which will be held at Nahassetts grove on Labor day. There was a large attendance of members and the election of officers for the coming year was held. Another meeting. One of the features of the affair will be the company drill which always excites interest.

ON BRIDAL TRIP

That Was Planned Many Years Ago

SAN FRANCISCO, July 12.—After a wait of 47 years, love came to its own again in the case of E. W. Codding and his wife, a bride couple on board the steamship Mariposa, which arrived in San Francisco from Tahiti yesterday.

The wedding trip, dreamed of in youth, had been made. And now the two are going back to Greenwood, in El Dorado, where they were boy and girl sweethearts, where they parted and where they met again after a delay of nearly half a century.

In that period both had married and both had lost their partners by death. The young lady, now 61, Miss Mary Barker was the belle of the old-fashioned, romantic mining camp of the Sierras. Codding was her sweetheart. The little town awaited their wedding. But the dreadful days of '61 unrolled themselves into bloody war and the sound of arms rang through the land. Codding joined the first regiment of California volunteers and Mary Barker was left alone.

In the years of strife that followed the two were gradually separated. Correspondence was difficult. Mary Barker knew not whether her sweetheart was alive or dead, and one day Codding learned that she had married another man, Russell Lewis of Greenwood.

Codding moved away to other spheres and in time was married himself. In the course of years Russell Lewis and Mrs. Codding were divorced by death. Recently, Codding, wishing to revisit the scene of his boyhood, left his home in New York and went to Greenwood. Then he learned that Mrs. Barker was a widow. He was a widower and so he came to his own, the two deciding that it was not too late to begin life anew. They were married in this city and went on a honeymoon trip to the South Seas, returning on the Mariposa yesterday.

They are at the St. Francis Hotel and will remain in San Francisco a few days before going back to Greenwood where they hope to end their days.

BREAKS UP SCHOOL

PROVINCETOWN, July 12.—Because one family moved there will be no school today. There were seven school children in the school, and their parents had to leave the school. The school was broken up because of the move.

PRESIDENT TAFT

Is Hard at Work on the Tariff Measure

WASHINGTON, July 12.—President Taft and the lawyers of his cabinet have undertaken to save the conference on the measure from being over the corporation tax measure. It is said that the measure passed by the senate must be redrafted in order to remove constitutional objections and to meet the views of the administration. The president has told leaders of the senate and house that as the administration would be charged with the responsibility of collecting the tax and defending the act if assailed in the courts the administration should be permitted to perfect the measure.

Senator Aldrich and Rep. Payne have made no objection to the suggestion made by the president and as a result Attorney General Wickersham is working out the legal problems it involves.

Some reluctance is being exhibited by members of the house to the suggestion that the inheritance tax feature adopted by that body shall be left out of the bill. President Taft has been impressed by the arguments of the states that they should not be disturbed in their use of the inheritance tax as a means of raising revenue although his belief in the principle has not abated. It is stated that the highest authority, however, that he does not think that federal and state governments should both resort to this method of raising revenue.

President Taft is holding daily conferences with the house and senate conferees on the tariff bill. He has found the conferees conciliatory and is hopeful that in the end a satisfactory bill will be presented to him for his signature.

The president is not opposed to a reduction in the rate in the corporation tax. This can be stated on the highest authority. If it can be shown that sufficient revenue can be produced at one per cent, rather than at two per cent, the president will not object to the reduction. He favors the tax as a tax and thinks there are more advantages.

In carrying out his plan of consulting the tariff conferees the president had Representative Fordney of Michigan as a breakfast guest today. At luncheon he entertained and had a long talk with Senator Aldrich. Later in the day he talked with Senator Burrows. Speaker Cannon was at the White House during the forenoon and will be a frequent caller until the tariff conference is ended. Saturday morning the president had a long talk with Chairman Payne of the house committee on ways and means.

President Taft has been informed by the conferees that they probably will be two weeks at their task.

TO STOP PLACING OF LOANS
CAMBRIDGE, July 12.—Legal action to prevent the placing of loans aggregating $255,000 which were signed by Mayor William Brooks today is threatened by the Taxpayers' association, an organization formed for the protection of the finances of the city. The loans include one of $75,000 for street improvements and two of $90,000 each for schoolhouse repairs. The loan orders were passed at the last meeting of the city government in spite of the Taxpayers' association which claimed that if the orders went through the borrowing capacity of the city would be reduced to an inconvenient limit.

FOUR SPANISH WORKMEN KILLED
MADRID, July 12.—An official statement, issued today, sets forth that Spain considers the killing of four Spanish workmen by natives at Melilla, Morocco, to be purely a local incident that in no way affects Spain's relations with Muli Tufid, the sultan of Morocco. Nevertheless, there is a disposition in Madrid to regard the killing of these men as a parallel case to the French assassinations at Casablanca and as forcing as well as authorizing Spain adequately to protect Spanish interests.

A total of seven thousand infantrymen and cavalrymen have embarked at Barcelona for Melilla.

TO NAME NEW CHANCELLOR
BERLIN, July 12.—Emperor William has sent a message to Chancellor Von Bulow announcing his return to Berlin, Wednesday, to consider the question of his successor in office, and it is probable that the announcement of the name of the new chancellor will be made within 24 hours of this conference. Dr. Von Bethmann-Holtweg, secretary of the interior and vice chancellor is still regarded as the most likely successor to Prince Von Bulow.

The chancellor has said farewell to the foreign ambassadors still in Berlin announcing at the same time that his retirement was imminent. He has sent a letter to Ambassador Hill who is at Geneva expressing regret that circumstances prevented a personal interview and bidding him good bye.

LAST CALL
To Our Dissolution of Partnership Sale

Last and Deepest Cut on Prices

This week is the last of the big sale which we have conducted for the last three weeks. By the first of next week we have to pay Mr. Ostroff the balance of his cash, and to do so we have to make a last effort. We have got to raise the money and, therefore, we have to sell our goods regardless of cost. We know we lose but circumstances make us. The people who attended this sale know of the great bargains they have received, and this week the axe goes farther in. A word to the wise is sufficient.

SCOPIO LANDED

After a Delay of Five Hours

BUFFALO, July 12.—Frank Scopio of Sherston, Ont., whom a Canadian village doctor was hurrying to a Buffalo hospital for a treatment that might save his life, and who was refused permission to land from the excursion steamer Americana, was brought ashore early this morning.

Scopio had his skull fractured in a game of duck-on-the-rock at Ridgeway, an Ontario village three miles inland from Crystal Beach. No adequate treatment could be given there and he was put on board an excursion steamer which plies between the beach and Buffalo. When the steamer arrived here Immigration Inspector Sparkling refused to allow the doctor to bring Scopio ashore on the ground that he was a disabled alien.

For five hours the ambulance stood idly at the dock and the wounded man remained aboard the steamer. Finally Chief Inspector Buchanan was reached and consent was given to bring Scopio ashore under a guarantee from the local hospital surgeons that he would not become a public charge. Scopio was instantly operated upon but the surgeons could not forecast the outcome.

SENT TO PRISON
Conspiracy and Perjury Charged

PROVIDENCE, July 12.—Carroll H. Chapman, one of the defendants in the Young & Holland Company bankruptcy fraud case was sentenced this morning by Judge Dune in the United States district court to two years in prison on the charge of conspiracy in bankruptcy and to pay a fine of $2500 on the same charge. On a second charge of perjury he was given a sentence of two years. Both sentences to run concurrently. He has already been in jail five months giving to contempt of court. Six other men are now serving sentences in this case.

OUTBREAKS LAMENTED
LIMA, Peru, July 12.—Although the Peruvian people are indignant at the recent disorders and hostile demonstrations at Lapa, they lament the outbreaks and ascribe them to politics. The fact that Dolvin has failed to accept Argentina's award in arbitration is receiving very unfavorable comment here.

FREE HIDES
BROCKTON, July 12.—"The shoe industry of this country is begging for free hides in hopes that we may be able to increase our export trade, give the consumer a better shoe for the price and prevent the beef trust from eventually monopolizing our great industry," declared ex-Gov. Douglas, a prominent shoe manufacturer, in a telegram to Congressman Samuel McCall today.

Concluding the governor said: "The shoe manufacturers of Massachusetts and of the whole country are unanimously in favor of free hides and depend upon you to do all in your power as a member of the committee conference to accomplish this result."

FUNERALS
McMAHON.—The funeral of Hugh McMahon took place this morning from the warerooms of Undertaker Peter Davey in Market street. The body was taken on the 12.05 train to Amesbury where interment took place in the Catholic cemetery. The bearers were Messrs. Joseph McCarron, Michael McCarty, James Teague, and Michael McMahon. Undertaker Peter Davey had charge of the burial. Tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock a high mass of requiem will be sung at the Immaculate Conception church for the repose of the soul of the late Hugh McMahon.

INJURIES FATAL
WASHINGTON, July 12.—Eastern High Aiken of the navy died aboard the armored cruiser North Carolina at Naples last night from injuries resulting from a coal gas explosion, attributed to the generation of gas in the bunkers. He was born in New Orleans in 1881 and entered the naval service in 1902. Peter Muller, the chief water tender of North Carolina, whose home is in Brooklyn, N. Y., also was injured slightly at the time of the explosion.

QUADRENNIAL CONVENTION
SEATTLE, Wash., July 12.—At the meeting last night of the Epworth league convention a resolution providing that the international convention shall be held quadrennially was adopted. The convention also approved resolutions denouncing the liquor traffic and advocating stricter Sunday observance.

LATEST CHURCH BELL

Presented the Lawrence Street P. M. Church

The formal exercises incidental to the new 1000 pound Blymer bell by the Lawrence Street Primitive church took place yesterday forenoon. The bell was presented by Thomas E. Wilde and Willard G. Parker, two members of the congregation. The program of the exercises was as follows: Singing of "Holy, Holy, Holy" by the choir, under the direction of Samuel Burt; and the congregation; prayer, in unison; singing of "The Lord's Prayer"; prayer, Rev. John T. Ullom; responsive reading; hymns; lesson; notice of offering; anthem, choir; presentation by Willard G. Parker; acceptance by the pastor; dedication sermon, Rev. John Mason, D. D. of Passaic, N. J.; hymn and benediction by the pastor.

In his presentation speech Mr. Parker said:

"There is one comfort greater than another to a person who has nothing to say at such a time as this, it is the realization of the fact that having nothing to say, he can announce that fact, take his seat and enjoy the remainder of the program unmolested."

"I can truly say that I have not burdened my mind with the smallest idea to present you. On this occasion I have not taxed my memory with anything, and I have no notes to read. I am simply because my Brother Wilde has refused to accept the call. Whatever one's calling may be it is his duty to respond, especially if he cannot escape, as in my case. It is an old saying, that the time to sit down is when an audience wants you to speak longer. In my case, if I wanted to speak longer you would want me to sit down."

"With these few words I will, therefore, in behalf of my Brother Wilde and myself present to the members of the Lawrence Street Primitive Methodist church this bell, to be used at their discretion for the furtherance and advancement of the Christian cause in Wiggville."

The bell was accepted by Rev. Mr. Ullom, in behalf of the church, and his words were few but appropriate. He thanked Messrs. Wilde and Parker for their generous gift and assured them that the bell would be appreciated for many years to come.

14 WERE KILLED

In a Collision in Platt Canon

BAILEYS, Colo., July 12.—Fourteen persons riding on a handcar and push car trailer on the Colorado and Southern railroad were killed or seriously injured in a collision with a freight train on a curve in the canon on last night. Two were killed, two fatally injured and 11 seriously hurt.

CHIMNEY FIRE
An alarm from box 24 yesterday afternoon summoned a portion of the fire department to a building in South street to extinguish a blaze caused by a defective chimney.

ANNUAL OUTING

OF THE PUBLIC SCHOOL JANITORS HELD SATURDAY

The annual outing of the Lowell public school janitors was held Saturday at Mountain Rock grove and was attended by a large number of the janitors and their friends. A fine list of sports was carried out during the afternoon, the feature of the day being a baseball game between the janitors and employees of the lands and buildings department. The game was won by the janitors by the close score of 5 to 4.

Among the guests present were Inspector Dow, Peter A. MacKenzie and several others.

The committee which had charge of the arrangements consisted of Arthur Dana, chairman; Michael Finnegan, Henry Driscoll, Terrence Casey and Joseph Provost.

KILLED BY FALL

BOSTON, July 12.—Thomas J. Fitzgerald, 41 Gould street, an employee of the city of Melrose, while engaged in moth extermination work Saturday morning from the top of a 35-foot tree on West Foster street and died two hours later at the Melrose hospital.

Fitzgerald was considered the most daring climber in the moth department. While working on a dead elm, Saturday, the limb broke and Fitzgerald was thrown to the ground, landing on his head.

TRYING TO FLOAT COLLIER

NEWPORT, R. I., July 12.—Under weather conditions in every way favorable the Arkhoke wreckers started another attempt to float the stranded naval collier Xero today. The first efforts will be devoted to removing the sharp rocks which punctured the Xero's side.

Then the compartments will be filled with compressed air and the hull is expected to float. The engineers today could not estimate the time that would be required.

RACING SEASON OPENS

WOONSOCKET, R. I., July 12.—A five day meeting at the driving park in the city will be begun this afternoon opening the harness racing season in New England. The card for today included three events, a 2:20 and a 2:22 pace and a 2:20 trot, each for a purse of $300.

JIM JEFFRIES

SAYS THAT HE WILL NOT FIGHT JOHNSON

MONTREAL, July 12.—Jim Jeffries said positively last night that he won't fight Jack Johnson under any considerations. The big champion is here giving an exhibition of boxing. He gave as his reasons lack of confidence and reluctance to fight a colored man. He said:

"I won't fight Johnson for I have decided to quit the boxing game. I can't get into my old class, and besides I don't want to fight a colored man. I would like to see the champion go to a white man, but I can't go to defend myself. There are plenty of men who can trim this man Johnson, and I wouldn't be surprised to see some Heister get the belt. The fans can count me out, though."

OVER 900 MEN AT COMMUNION SUNDAY

Rev. Fr. Burns Pays Touching Tribute to Late Rev. Michael Ronan—Solemn Requiem at St. Peter's Tomorrow—Other Catholic News

The quarterly communion day of St. Peter's Holy Name society yesterday was by far the most successful ever since the reorganization, over 900 members attending the altar rail. It was particularly pleasing to Rev. John Burns, the zealous spiritual director, who has labored early and late for the success of the organization.

The members assembled at the Fair hall at 7:30 o'clock and headed by Pres. Wm. E. Daly and Vice President Edward Whelan, marched to St. Peter's church where services were reserved in the main aisle as well as the special aisle. Rev. Fr. Burns was celebrant of the mass and he was assisted in giving communion by Rev. Daniel J. Heenan. The Holy Name choir, under the direction of James E. Donnelly, rendered Von La Hache's mass, solos of the mass being sung by Messrs. Donnelly, Haley and Mahoney. John J. Kelly presided at the organ. After the announcements had been read Rev. Fr. Burns spoke a word of commendation to the men on the magnificent showing saying that it was a striking manifestation of loyalty to the society.

He referred feelingly to the death of Rev. Fr. Ronan as an irreparable loss to the society for whose welfare and success he was ever solicited. Fr. Burns said that Fr. Ronan always instructed him to leave no stone unturned at all times to further the interests of the society and its members. His death, he said, is a great loss to the society as well as to the parish, for he had looked forward since the mission to this, the first communion day of the society, as a proud day in the history of the parish. We miss him this morning, Fr. Burns said, for he always stood in his accustomed place, looking after the seating of the members and otherwise providing for their comfort.

Fr. Burns then exhorted the members to offer up their communion to God for the repose of the soul of the late pastor, that he may enjoy eternal happiness with the Master whom he served so long and faithfully on earth. There were few dry eyes in the chapel as Fr. Burns concluded his sermon.

After mass the prayers of thanksgiving were offered up by Rev. Fr. Burns and the services closed with the singing of "Te Deum." The usual benediction and prayers were omitted yesterday out of respect to the memory of Rev. Fr. Ronan.

In the evening the members assembled in the chapel again for the regular monthly devotional service. Fr. Burns officiated and the Holy Name choir assisted.

Rev. John T. O'Brien celebrated the 9 o'clock mass and also delivered the sermon. At the offertory Miss Harriet Moran, in a beautiful soprano voice, rendered "Ave Maria."

Mass for Fr. Ronan
At 8 o'clock tomorrow morning a solemn high mass of requiem will be celebrated for the repose of the soul of the late Rev. Michael Ronan. This mass is given at the request of the Ladies' auxiliary, A. C. H., of which organization the deceased priest was chaplain for many years.

DEATHS

WRIGHT—Mrs. Hannah M. Wright, widow of Edward H. Wright died Sunday morning at her residence, 53 Lamb street, after a short illness, aged 89 years. Born Nov. 17, 1849. She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. George L. Perham of this city and two brothers, Mr. Warren Gilman of Lowell and Mr. Frank Gilman of Chelsea, Vt. The body will be sent to Chelsea, Vt., Tuesday morning for burial by Undertaker Albert H. Bixby.

MAGEE—Mrs. Mary J. Magee, a well known and highly respected resident of St. Peter's parish, died Sunday afternoon at the home of Mrs. John Magee, 339 Lawrence street. Besides a husband, Thomas, she leaves a mother, Mrs. Ann Pettie and one brother, Frank Pettie.

TO SAVE WIFE

Man Comes East to Get Old Horse

GARDNER, July 12.—Claiming the right of the horse will be a greater strengthener to his wife's delicate health than any physician's prescription. S. S. Schaefer of Goshen, Ind., left yesterday for his Indiana home, traveling 2000 miles.

With Mr. Schaefer but riding in a roomy box car is a big coal black horse that was located by the Indiana man after one week's search.

When he gets home with the horse, which for years has been a family pet, Mr. Schaefer is confident that a severe case of nervous prostration that his wife is afflicted with is going to evaporate.

The horse was brought east three weeks ago by Wm. H. Hinds, liveryman, who bought it in one of the Buffalo markets. It had reached Buffalo through one of the horse jobbers who makes trips through the west in search of good looking horses to be sold in the Buffalo markets.

Mr. Schaefer sold the horse to one of the jobbers who passed through Goshen. Mrs. Schaefer was ill and said that she did not care to have the horse sold for a few weeks and when the animal was disposed of, she was informed that it was being sold to Goshen to Buffalo.

Mr. Schaefer said the horse was fine but a few days when his wife complained of being about it and the matter so worked on her mind that her illness increased and she became very nervous.

$25,000 DAMAGE

CAUSED BY FIRE IN WEST MEADOW ROAD

The fire which broke out in woodshed belonging to Thomas Varum in the West Meadow road Thursday afternoon and which broke out yesterday Friday and Saturday, was, it is believed, finally extinguished last night. The flames swept over one hundred acres of land and did damage to the extent of $25,000.

Besides the standing timber that was damaged the fire destroyed 2000 ft. of wood belonging to Constable E. H. LaPorte and 150 cords the property of Thomas Varum.

IN POLICE COURT

Young Man Up for Breaking and Entering

Delore Delbon, a young man, was arrested before Judge Pickman in police court this morning on a complaint charging him with breaking and entering Osgood's drug store, corner of Morris and Suffolk streets, on the night of June 22, and attempting to break into the store.

He was with the three fellows who were standing on the opposite side of the street watching for the police officers, but they came on him so suddenly that he did not have time to notify his pals of the danger they were in. He took to his heels.

Patrolman Hagley, who arrested Delbon, said that Delbon told him that his mother had turned him out of the house and he was starving and that he and three other fellows arranged to break into the place.

Delbon, who on the night of the break while he was standing guard on the opposite side of the street from the store his three companions entered the place. A couple of police officers came into view so suddenly that he took to his heels.

The local court has jurisdiction in cases of this kind, under the law, which went into effect on July 1st. Judge Pickman held Delbon for the grand jury, inasmuch as the three young men who were with him were arraigned in court before the first of the month and held for the grand jury.

Cruelty to a Horse
The case of Herbert McConnell, charged with cruelty to a horse, was continued till Thursday.

Assault with a Knife
George Tagulis, aged 25 years, was arrested Saturday afternoon by Patrolmen P. D. Murphy and William Giroux, charged with assault with a knife. Tagulis and a fellow countryman, named John Pank, got into an altercation in the market that followed it. It is alleged that George drew a knife and inflicted a slight wound on complainant before the weapon was taken away from him.

Pank was in court during the early part of the session, but when the case was called he could not be found. The case was continued till Wednesday.

Non-Support Case
Charles J. Hill pleaded not guilty to a complaint charging him with failure to provide support for his wife, Laura J. since the first of May. According to the testimony offered, Mr. Hill left his wife about the first of May and since that time, though the man was working every day, he neglected to contribute towards the support of his wife. Mrs. Hill testified that her husband drank heavily and that a good portion of the money he earned was used for drink.

Hill was found guilty but given a chance to make amends and do right.

FUNERALS

HUBBARD—The funeral of John Hubbard, the little boy who was drowned Friday evening, took place Sunday afternoon from the home of his parents, 4 Jewett avenue, and was largely attended. CIVIL SERVICE RULES

Some Startling Disclosures if Investigation is Held

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The threatened searching investigation by congress of the civil service commission will be welcomed, so far as the civil service commission itself is concerned, Gen. Black, president of the commission, says, and the men who are behind the movement to have congress turn the affairs of the commission inside out say some very startling disclosures will be revealed, and it is also added that when these disclosures come out ex-President Roosevelt may find he has more important things on his hands than hunting lions in Africa.

It has been charged that the departments in Washington are filled with incompetents and that a great many men and women have been admitted to the government service who were not required to pass the strict examination that was supposed to be taken by every person before receiving an appointment.

This is denied by Gen. Black. He says he has no knowledge of incompetents being in the service, and as for the examinations he says they were prepared by experts and every person before being certified was examined as to his or her mental and physical qualifications.

Complaints About Deadwood
Both Secretaries Hallinger and Nagel have complained of the deadwood in their departments and have been wailing about the incompetents.

One of the reasons, it was said, that led to friction between the director of the census, Mr. North, and Sec. Nagel, which ended by the resignation of the former, was the secretary's discovery that the census bureau was filled with men and women who had been appointed at the request of influential senators and members of the house, but who did not possess the qualifications to enable them to do the work required of them.

The civil service law makes it obligatory that a person shall be a resident of the state from which he is appointed and shall take the examination there. That this law has been violated is proved by the fact that a few days ago the civil service commission gave notice that only those persons who are legal residents of the District of Columbia could take the examination here and that all others must be examined in the states in which they claimed residence.

It was said that some 900 persons in this city, but who claimed legal residence elsewhere, were affected by the order, which is conclusive evidence that the law had not been obeyed.

The charge was frequently made during Mr. Roosevelt's administration that he persistently ignored the civil service law and the spirit of appointment and promotion solely on merit by suspending the civil service regulations whenever he had a friend to appoint or a favorite to promote. The president is given power by executive order to waive the civil service requirements and to permit a person to be appointed without examination or irrespective of the quota to which the state is entitled.

This privilege is supposed to be used sparingly and only in cases of sudden emergencies, as when it is necessary to appoint a professional or technical expert and a man conspicuously qualified for the place is known to be willing to accept it. Men of that character often refuse to enter into competition for an appointment, nor is it certain that a competitive examination could secure the best man for a place of that kind.

Roosevelt's Way
Presidents Cleveland, Harrison and McKinley rarely suspended the rules, but Mr. Roosevelt did it repeatedly. During Mr. McKinley's four years and six months' incumbency of the White House he suspended the law three times, once at the request of Mr. Roosevelt, so that he might appoint Clifford Pinchot chief forester, and the others so as to appoint Ex-Pastmaster Gen. Tyler law officer of the postoffice department and his son-in-law, Harrison J. Barritt his assistant.

Mr. Roosevelt suspended the law 315 times. Under his predecessors the clerical and other employees of the White House were as much protected by civil service rules as were the men working in the departments in Washington or in the postoffice in Boston.

When Mr. Roosevelt wanted a colored barber he had him transferred from one of the departments and sent to the White House.

Congressmen knew these things, but were afraid to open their lips. Mr. Roosevelt had been an original civil service reformer; he was at one time a fervent service commissioner and he was always talking of his devotion to the cause of civil service reform. He had such a contempt for spoilsman politicians that he often publicly denounced them and vetoed a "spoils" census bill.

But now that Mr. Roosevelt is no longer in the White House the lips of members of congress are opened and they say the time has come to have some real reform. In Washington one hears that the merit system has practically broken down.

Not one man in a hundred advocates a return to the old order when "pull" was the only thing that counted and whenever a senator or representative died all the persons who owed their appointments to his influence were made to walk the plank. There has been a very great improvement in the morale and efficiency of the government employees and for that reason most men want the law rigidly enforced and those persons dismissed who came into the service through the back door of "executive suspension," or else made to stand an examination to show that they have the ability to do the work for which they are drawing salaries.

The charge made is that persons who were irregularly appointed had nothing to commend them except executive favor, and while they are enjoying comfortable salaries other persons with greater abilities are doing the work at lower remuneration.

EARLY MARRIAGE
ADVOCATED BY REV. FRANCIS J. BUTLER

BOSTON, July 12.—The Rev. Father Francis J. Butler of St. Leo's church, Dorchester, at the 10:15 o'clock mass yesterday spoke on "Matrimony" in part as follows:

"Young couples should enter into the married state before they have attained the age of 20 years. Parents should interpose no objections to these so-called early marriages.

"Wedded couples should own their own homes. They should have many children to bless their hearths and make happy their declining years.

"Publicity should be a feature of the entry into the married state. All weddings should be performed in the church and accompanied by the full ceremony provided therefor.

"Girls today in many cases earn the same, or even nearly the same, salaries as men. In consequence there are those who fear to give up their salaries for the unknown alternative of marriage. This should not be so. Matrimony is the natural state of man and woman.

"The girls of today care altogether too much for dress, fashion and display."

ST. LOUIS' CHOIR
HELD OUTING AT BOUGHARD'S FARM

The members of St. Louis' choir, together with L'Union Sainte-Cecile, whose members are for the most part of the choir also, had a very pleasant outing yesterday afternoon at the Boughard farm in Braintree.

Adolphe Boughard, proprietor of the farm, is a member of both the choir and the union. An appetizing dinner was served in the farm house, the rest of the day being pleasantly spent out of doors with boating and other outdoor diversions. There was also an interesting program of music in which participated Jules Morissette, Emery C. Gaudin, Ernest Perron, Oliver J. David, Dr. T. D. Chagnon, Elzear J. Laroche and others.

NEW HAMPSHIRE POLICE RAIDING A CAMP AT LONG POND

14 Arrests at Tom Scully's Place at Long Pond

After a dash across the country in four automobiles, Sheriff Frederic K. Ramsey of Manchester, and 15 deputy sheriffs, inspectors and policemen yesterday swooped down on Thomas Scully's resort in Pelham and arrested the proprietor and 13 men. The charges against them vary from keeping for sale down to being drunk and disorderly. The raid was one of the most dramatic that has been conducted in this section for some time and is one of a series that Sheriff Ramsey has been carrying on for some time.

The Manchester Union describes the raid as follows: A week ago complaint came to County Solicitor Aime Boisvert of Manchester of the existence of Scully's place at Long pond in Pelham, just a few rods across the Massachusetts line from Braintree. At 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, armed with the necessary papers, Sheriff Ramsey and his men left Manchester, and coming through Nashua went to Pelham, about a mile and a half beyond Cutters Corner.

The trip was made through Nashua, Hudson and Pelham Center to a point below Pelham Center called Cutters Corner. Here the party left the automobiles and took to the woods and a partially used wood road. It was all the world like an Indian trail—at times the officers pushing through the brush, hardly able to see where they were going. In fact, it was a blind trail, and in the worst country some of the men had ever seen.

After going about a mile and a half the police took their bearings. The first of the party, they came across was a drunken man under a tree.

After going a short way farther and getting out on high ground the police could look down on the place, where there was a sort of a dance pavilion that had been better days, and perhaps 150 people lounging around, some of them playing cards, others stretched out under the trees in various stages of intoxication, and some of them in groups wondering here and there. The sheriff's men were somewhat surprised on finding such a crowd, and it was decided that as it would be impossible to take in the entire bunch, the best way would be to attack the pavilion, or the headquarters where the drink appeared to be and where the people were going on.

The sheriff's men were a sight. They were dirty and shabby and hot and ready to do most anything to get out of the woods into a clearing. The sheriff decided to make for the pavilion. The men were detailed out into a semi-circle and they closed in upon the building.

The sheriff and his men dashed into the place and held up Scully, the proprietor and the bartender, and then the sheriff warned the crowd to remain quiet, that he did not wish any serious trouble, but there would be trouble if any attempt at resistance was made.

The sheriff and his posse, once inside the pavilion, began to sort out the men, the women and the children. The pavilion had something in the far and distant past been used for a dance hall. The structure was perhaps seventy feet long by thirty feet wide. The windows were battered out and the building had seen better days. When the posse arrived, four men were playing cards and the money was out in plain sight on the cards. These men were snatched up for gambling at once.

Scully, the proprietor, was taken on two counts, keeping for sale and selling, and the bartender, McGrath, was charged with selling.

Then the police set out to gather in the drunks. There were eight of them. Some of them were sleeping off their debauch under the trees and others were free with their tongues and had to be violently hushed up by the officers.

It appears that the only convenient way to get to this scene of carousal was by a little steamer, which plied over a little body of water called Long pond. This pond is so narrow that it is more like a river. The steamers carried the passengers from the Braintree shore on the other side to the place where the pavilion was used for the sale of liquor. The crowd could get away only by the route taken by the steamer. The other way they would have run into the officers, who had come through the woods. This fact the sheriff made known to the gang when he landed in the pavilion with his deputies.

How to get the prisoners to Manchester was another thing. It was finally decided to send into Pelham and ask for a special trolley car, so an automobile was sent into that town and the superintendent of the trolley line was asked for a special car.

The car was sent down to Cutters Corner, where the automobiles had been left, and the string of prisoners was marched a mile and a half through the woods and placed aboard the car, under guard. The raid was made at about 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and all were landed at the Hillborough county jail and turned over to Judge Poirer.

The prisoners are, as follows: Thomas Scully, of Braintree, Mass., keeping liquor for sale and selling; Henry McGrath, bartender, selling; Ferdinand Thomas, Rochester, N. H., selling liquor.

The raid was made through tips that had been received from the Massachusetts authorities by County Solicitor Aime Boisvert, who notified Sheriff Ramsey, and the officials had been at work on the case for a week.

The place where the drinking and gambling were being conducted was in one of the wildest places in Hillsborough county, which could not be reached by car line nor traveled by road, and was but a few rods the other side of the Massachusetts line.

The complaint was made to County Solicitor Boisvert about ten days ago, and Sheriff Ramsey at once got busy. Saturday Sheriff Ramsey saw Chief Healy and requested the loan of ten patrolmen, which the chief freely granted. Then, taking six deputy sheriffs, the party was ordered to meet at a certain place in Manchester at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, all in citizens' dress, but fully armed.

The raiding party was made up as follows: Sheriff Ramsey and Deputy Sheriffs L. C. B. Burke, T. B. Donnelly, John Jaquith, J. L. Deaudry, Robert Burton and Michael Ryan, and Inspectors O'Dowd and Hildreth, and Policemen Lynch, Shea, Dwyer, Brown, Poirer, McGrath, Bourke and Graf.

Three men were not informed where they were going until the journey had progressed a considerable distance out of the city. Four automobiles were used in carrying the party.

TWO CHARGED
MEN ARE ACCUSED OF HIGHWAY ROBBERY

HAVERHILL, July 12.—Charged with attempting highway robbery, George Bolek and Stanislaus Perez, both Polishers, are held in custody by the local police, awaiting a hearing before Judge Fuller in the district court.

Both men were arrested early yesterday morning by Patrolman Howard R. State on complaints received from William Greenburgh, a storekeeper on Ayer street, who alleges that he was held up by the men near his home on Ayer street at midnight, and Stannish Bolek and Stanislaus Perez, who claim to have been held up by the men earlier Saturday night.

Greenburgh claims that he was suddenly attacked by the men on Ayer street as he was leaving his home, and that one of them threatened him with a knife while the other attempted to rob him. His outburst caused them to take flight and they were captured a short time later and identified by the alleged victims as their assailants.

MAN DROWNED
SEIZED WITH CRAMPS WHILE IN BATHING

LAWRENCE, July 12.—Harry Fearley, aged 27, was drowned in the Stickett river at Methuen at 7:40 last night. He was bathing with four companions and was seized with cramps, sinking before help could reach him. The body was recovered by Chief of Police Gordon and Patrolman Beaumont and brought back to Lawrence.

Fearley lived at 652 Broadway, and had recently returned from a visit to England. He was employed as a weaver in the Arlington mills. During the Spanish-American war he served in a volunteer company.

THE HOLDING COMPANY.

And now comes John L. Billard who deponeth that no holding company can take away from him the 110,000 shares of Boston and Maine stock in his possession. No such company can even buy the stock, says Mr. Billard, unless at the price which he sees fit to ask. What then has this holding company provided by the Massachusetts legislature got to hold?

LOWER CONCORD A MENACE TO HEALTH.

Unless something be done to clear the lower Concord river of the accumulations of filth that have choked the stream it may soon cause pestilence to spread throughout the city. This river is the outlet for sewers, for the scourgings of mills, the rendering works, the tannery of the American Hide and Leather company and various other factories. For years the accumulations of filth have been growing until now when the water is low, they are a veritable menace to the public health. The river has received no attention for many years, all kinds of junk, sewage and offal being dumped into it in the meantime. Below the Rogers street bridge there is a ridge of filth in the middle of the river on which grass and weeds are growing. The mud or gatherings are piled as high as the dam in the rear of Scripture's laundry.

The dangerous state of the river is shown by the fact that boys who went in bathing there during the hot spell were poisoned and a number of them are now under medical treatment. The city authorities are responsible for the condition of this river and its injurious effect upon the public health. If it be not the duty of the city to provide a remedy, then the corporations responsible for the present condition of the river should be compelled to clear the stream of the ever increasing obstructions or else leave sufficient water at all times to cover the entire bed of the river below the Rogers street bridge. The city itself by emptying its sewers into that river is partly responsible for the accumulations but not for locking up the water at any time during the week.

It is noticeable that the river is much lower on Sundays than during the week. From this it appears that the water is dammed up and turned into the canals in order to board the water power for the ensuing week. That should not be tolerated. Why menace the public health in order to effect a slight saving in power for certain companies along the banks of the river?

What the people would like to know is, how long will they have to endure this nuisance or will it be allowed to continue until it causes an epidemic?

REWARD OF MERIT IN THE FACTORIES.

Editor Sun: I wish to thank you for your editorial of Friday last in which you say that one of the things the mills must do if they want to beat the south is to reward merit among their help. You never said a truer thing in your life for the way things go now, there is no inducement to anybody to improve. It is favoritism and not merit that rules and this is bad for the mills and bad for the operatives. It serves only the favored few at the expense of the company. I remain

Respectfully Yours, M.H. Operative.

It is very evident that the mill in which there is no inducement to improve will never attain excellence in any line. When an employee who has been working for years with a view to promotion finds somebody else brought in to fill a vacancy that he should fill as a reward of years of faithful work, he naturally loses interest in the success of the factory. He does not care whether it wins or loses. The only interest he can feel consists in looking upon it as a means of earning a mere livelihood. How different would he feel if he found his faithful service rewarded by promotion whenever a vacancy occurs which he is qualified to fill. This question of encouraging self-improvement among the operatives by recognizing merit is one of vast importance to the factories and to the people. It is one of the things upon which the success of the factory largely depends. Only let the operatives understand that those who work hard to improve their efficiency in their respective lines will thereby improve their chances of advancement, and there will be a steady endeavor to do better work. This will result in a gradual improvement in the general efficiency of all the operatives and of course in turning out more perfect work. But let the operatives feel as do three-fourths of them at the present time, that the doors to promotion are barred against them, that it is useless for them to improve their minds, useless to attend night school or the evening Textile school, useless to strive upward where merit is never rewarded, and what will be the result? Carelessness in work, carelessness in the use of machinery and tools, carelessness everywhere, disregard of the company's interests and neglect of their own natural endowments.

It is universally acknowledged that if we do not try to improve we shall in consequence deteriorate or go backward. Is it not then a serious mistake for the management of any mill to offer no incentive to the great mass of operatives to strive for excellence in the various lines of work on which they are employed? This is to prevent progress, to encourage retrogression and decay. It is one of the best policies that a textile factory employing thousands of hands can afford to adopt. The superintendent or the boss who gathers about him a lot of his favorites, selected not because of superior skill but because he can place them where they get good money for a minimum of skill and labor, is not the kind of man who will benefit the mill. Still worse, is it to throw out employees who through a long period of years have been faithful and efficient and devoted to the company's interests. That evinces the indignation of all the other employees who recognize in the charge an unreasonable act of injustice. Many a mill has been put upon the downward grade because of this very work, for the reason that the rank and file of the operatives feel that their merit is never rewarded, that they have reached the highest they can ever attain and that it is useless to aspire to anything better, useless to hope for recognition of faithful service, for excellence in work or advancement in technical skill.

At a time when our textile factories are beset with strong competition from the south, would it not be well for them to give their operatives a real and live interest in the work by rewarding merit either with promotion or increase of wages and thus offer to all operatives an incentive to self-improvement and the attainment of skill and confidence in their chosen work.

SEEN AND HEARD

There has been much discussion in the courts and elsewhere relative to the definition of whiskey, and while we believe that a good definition for it would be: "A good thing to let alone," the following more scientific definition, taken from the Pharmaceutical Lexicon, a dictionary of pharmaceutical science, etc., may be of greater value and more acceptable to the interested and curious: Spiritus Frumenti (Whiskey)—Spirit obtained from fermented grain by distillation, and containing from forty-eight to fifty-six per cent. absolute alcohol. It should be free from disagreeable odor, and not less than two years old.

THE TWO BONNETS

The bonnet of eighteen fifty-one. And the bonnet of nineteen-nine. What would they say if they chanced to meet. And what would I choose for mine? Fashions change and the shapes are old. But the faces beneath the brim, Ah, they are the same in the sweet-heated flame. As they were in the days grown dim!

Under the bonnet of fifty-one. The eyes that were twinkling then. Had the dear same look when their beams o'erlook. The gleam in the hearts of men; The old time ladies were ladies still, With youth and the eyes of blue, And men wrote sonnets to old-time bonnets. As men now write to the new! One of the bonnets of fifty-one— I saw it the other day, With its faded bows and its old prim-rose. And the little silk ribbons of gray; Under the attic rafters hung. Through the shadows I saw it gleam And out of the shadows she danced and sang— The lass of my boyhood dream!

PEOPLE OF NOTE.

It is reported from Ottawa that her excellency, Lady Grey, and Captain Newton, A. D. C., are ill with scarlet fever at government house, but that both are making favorable progress. The disease was contracted during Lady Grey's visit to Toronto attending the International Woman's Council, on which she was accompanied by Captain Newton. It developed on the return journey.

J. M. Barrie's modesty and shrinking from personal publicity are such well-known traits of his character that it will hardly surprise his friends to learn that he has been unable to accept the recently announced royal birthday honors being arranged, the author of "Peter Pan" was set down for a knight, Barrie, who is a friend of King's might aptly have quoted the latter's ballad about the man who wouldn't have them make a knight of me, but he usually declined the proffered honor, politely but firmly. "I don't go in for that sort of thing," was the way in which he dismissed the matter. There are unkind persons who say that the distinction was offered to Barrie only after Barrie and refused it, but there are several good reasons for discrediting this statement, among them the fact that the author of "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray" was slated for a knighthood at last year's royal birthday distribution, but the nomination did not go through.

Miss Hilda Stowe, daughter of the Rev. C. E. Stowe, formerly of Bridgewater, and a grand-daughter of Harriet Beecher Stowe, will make her debut on the professional stage with William Faversham in "Herod" in the fall. When a little girl residing in Freiburg, Germany, she impersonated Hansel in "Hansel and Gretchen," and later in Switzerland she appeared in scenes from several plays in an amateur performance. When a student at Smith college she appeared as Laureollet Gobbie in "The Merchant of Venice," and as Puck in "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

Urged by her relatives to attack a divorce granted in Illinois 42 years ago, Mrs. Hanna Douglas, an aged and infirm resident of Los Angeles, will be applied in a few days that the supreme court of the state of Washington has decided she is neither the wife nor the widow of the late Hiram L. Douglas who died in Spokane in 1900, leaving a valuable estate. They were married in Michigan in 1857 and separated five years afterward when Douglas moved to Illinois, where he instituted an action for divorce, alleging desertion. The records show the decree was granted. Douglas came to the northwest in 1858 and located on a homestead in Spokane county. He was killed in a runaway accident two years later, when his daughter and her husband, George W. Teller, began to develop the farm, making it a valuable property. To establish heirship Mrs. Douglas alleged she never heard of the divorce until after her husband's death, asserting that it was void because it had not been signed and that it was procured by fraud. The supreme court ruled that it now is too late to attack the divorce thus awarding the estate to Mrs. Teller.

SHOT TO DEATH

Bullet Entered Providence Man's Heart

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 12.—Brooding over the alleged cruel treatment of his sister, her husband, Alfred Mancini, Philip Diener shot and fatally injured Mancini, one of the wealthiest Italians in the city, last night. The shooting occurred at Diener's home, 8 Baker street, and in the presence of his mother, brother and three sisters, one of whom was his victim while the other three were in the room. Mancini then started to run, but his brother-in-law fired again, this time with deadly effect, the bullet piercing his heart and causing almost instant death.

CONNERS BROS.

WON SUIT BROUGHT BY MERRILL CO. OF BOSTON

A suit brought by the Merrill company of Boston, against the Connors Brothers Construction Company of Lowell, has been decided in favor of the Lowell firm. The Merrill company brought a suit for $20,000 for balance alleged to be due them on a contract for heating and ventilating apparatus in the Oneida county court house in Utica, N. Y. They being subcontractors for Connors Brothers general contractors. The Connors Brothers Co. set up a counter claim, but the case was submitted to Samuel K. Hamilton, Esq., and Joseph Wiggin, Esq., of Boston, and Frank E. Dunbar, Esq., of Lowell, as arbitrators, who by agreement, that judgment should be rendered in favor of the Lowell firm. The arbitrators on Friday filed in the superior court at East Cambridge their award, which finds in favor of the Connors Brothers Construction Co., on their counter claim, in the sum of $3472.42. Elder & Whitman of Boston appeared for the Merrill company. Albert S. Howard of Lowell for Connors Brothers.

BATTLE FOUGHT

BETWEEN COSSACKS AND ROYALISTS NEAR TEHERAN

TEHERAN, Persia, July 12.—Persian Cossacks, commanded by Russian officers, and other troops of the shah, numbering altogether 1200, made an attack yesterday morning upon the United Nationalists' forces, under St. Paul and Sidiarad, at a point 15 miles from Teheran.

Although the Royalists shelled the Nationalist position with four guns for two hours, they failed to dislodge the enemy. Two hundred of the Cossacks advanced to within half a mile of the Nationalists, keeping up a heavy fire with maxims and quick fires. The Nationalists replied at intervals with a single gun, dropping a number of shells into the Cossacks' and compelling them to retire.

No information has been received here as to the number of casualties.

FATAL JUMP

BAKER OF STR. PLYMOUTH WAS DROWNED AT PROVIDENCE

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 12.—While trying to jump from the deck of the steamer Plymouth of Providence line to the dock at 530 last evening, John Ellis, colored, the baker of the vessel, missed his footing, fell overboard and was drowned. Ellis was 48 years old and a native of Barbadoes. The Plymouth had just returned from New London with a large crowd of excursionists and was being made fast to her dock at Fox Point when the accident occurred. The body has not been recovered.

NEGRO WILL DIE PICTURE SHOWS

Their Tendencies Discussed by Rev. Mr. Craig

NEW YORK, July 12.—Mary Leppin, a young girl, 20 years old, walked up behind Joseph Thompson, a West Indian negro youth, in a downtown apartment house where he ran the elevator, and snatched his spine yesterday with a bullet. She fired four shots, three of which lodged in the negro's body. The girl, who became hysterical after the shooting, said that she did it because Thompson had ceased to care for her. The negro will die.

HEAVY STORM

THOUSANDS OF SMALL FROGS COVERED THE SIDEWALK

UTICA, N. Y., July 12.—A message received last night from Gouverneur says that in a heavy wind and rain storm there thousands of small but perfectly formed frogs fell covering the sidewalk in Grove street to such an extent that walking was difficult. The rains on the Rome, Watertown & Ogdensburg division of the New York Central railroad for half a mile were covered and rendered so slippery that the speed of the train was materially lessened.

GENEVA, Switzerland, July 12.—A historic pageant, representing the growth of science and literature in the 17th and 18th centuries, brought to a close yesterday's ten day celebration of the 100th anniversary of the birth of John Calvin. The festival was the whole world for the nations of the world, though their representatives, united in according homage to the memory of the great thinker, writer and reformer.

AT LOS ANGELES

The Boston Elks' Party

Arrived Yesterday

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 12.—With the white dust of the desert still clinging to their clothes, the Boston herd of Elks came rolling into the Salt Lake station last night, some hours overdue. This latest has been the fate of almost every delegation, save those from the Pacific coast, that has arrived here in the last few days. But if the Boston men were behind time and tired with the long ride they did not show it.

Greeted by members of the reception committee, the famous white quadrille, for the nonce in tan uniforms, the New Englanders were taken to their quarters. The band played "Taps" as the start was made.

There was music galore and it was a festivity which made the most noise, the Elks from the Bay state or the Elks from the sunny southern California city.

Today will be devoted to taking in the sights of Los Angeles and on Tuesday the delegates will get down to business of the grand lodge.

It was anticipated both before and after the arrival of the Boston delegates that there was a division in their ranks on the question of the successor to Grand Exalted Ruler Holland. If this is so, none of the members would admit it, but smiled and waved a general hand, as though to intimate that strife was not in their calculations.

It is almost certain that Boston will be found lined up on the side of the Baltimoreans in the contest the latter are going to make for the grand lodge meeting in 1911. This campaign promises to be lively and Boston representatives are more or less the sentiment of the contingent from all New England is watched very closely by the boomers from the Maryland city and their rivals from St. Louis.

TROOPS CALLED

SYDNEY, C. B., July 12.—Unable to cope with the lawlessness of strike miners at the Inverness colliery, the Victorian government yesterday ordered to call troops from Halifax to restore order. The United Mine Workers of America, and they went out on a sympathy strike last Friday.

The men of the Provincial Workmen's association continued at work in the mines, but last Saturday when they were leaving the workings for their homes, they were met by a crowd of 2000 men and women, mostly Belgians, who saluted them with various epithets. Soon after struck and struck again by a mob of one thousand men, a strike workman was struck on the face of the head and received bad cuts.

LA PASE, Bolivia, July 11.—La Pasa was given over last night to riots. The people swarmed into the streets and did much damage. The electric light wires were cut and pilaging was begun on all sides. Shots were heard in every direction. The situation for foreigners, especially Peruvians and Argentine residents, is extremely serious. The guards protecting the Peruvian and Argentine legations were suddenly withdrawn Sunday evening, for some unknown reason. When this became known street mobs renewed their attacks on the legations, causing serious damage.

The Argentine minister, Senor Fortica and his wife, had a narrow escape from injury. They made their way out of the legation and ran a distance of eight blocks, finally seeking protection in the home of the president of Bolivia.

THE GLIDDEN TOUR

Start of Great Event Made in Detroit This Morning

DETROIT, July 12.—With his pilot thrust through Chicago, Minneapolis and Denver, the first of the Glidden tour cars, which will carry newspapermen and officials on the trip, started about the square waiting for their owners and passengers to see the start of the competitors at 10 o'clock.

Chairman Hower gave the final instructions to the corps of observers and handed to each one the sealed bag of extra parts which is carried in every car under the supervision of the observer who will see that the machine is penalized if it becomes necessary to break the seal and use any of the bag's contents.

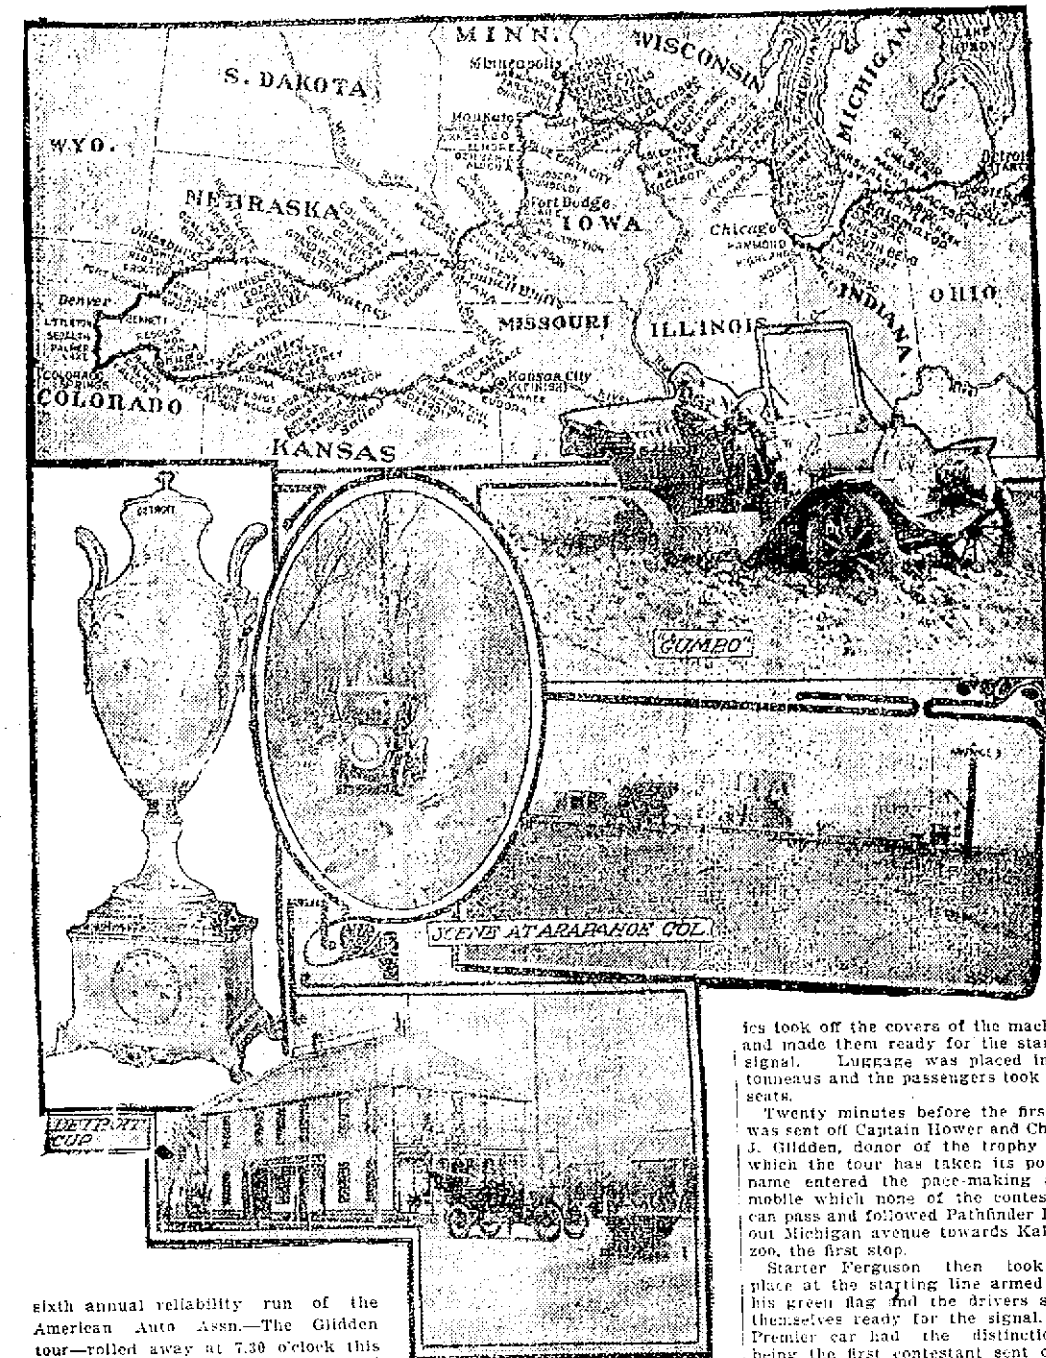

Sid by side in the park across the square stood great high powered touring cars and little runabouts, whose smoothness was accentuated by their big wheels. Under the rigid rules governing the contest not one of them could be touched by its driver or owner until one half hour before the start of the tour at 10 o'clock. When the signal was given the observers went to their respective cars and under their watchful eyes the drivers and mechanday was crowded with automobile enthusiasts from all parts of the country. They cheered when Lewis drove away from the starting line.

The twenty non-contesting cars which will carry newspapermen and officials on the trip stood about the square waiting for their owners and passengers to see the start of the competitors at 10 o'clock.

Chairman Hower gave the final instructions to the corps of observers and handed to each one the sealed bag of extra parts which is carried in every car under the supervision of the observer who will see that the machine is penalized if it becomes necessary to break the seal and use any of the bag's contents.

sixth annual reliability run of the American Auto Assn.—The Glidden tour—rolled away at 7:30 o'clock this morning and began the longest and hardest run which the association ever has undertaken. Swathed in canvas and rubber coverings, 30 automobiles were then parked in an inclosure in Cadillac square waiting the starter's signal to follow the pathfinder on the 2266 mile journey which is to take them of the contest committee and the observers who represent them in each machine. Cadillac square where the cars have stood since they "checked in" to Chairman Hower on Friday and Satur-

ies took off the covers of the machines and made them ready for the starting signal. Luggage was placed in the tonneaus and the passengers took their seats.

Twenty minutes before the first car was sent off Captain Hower and Charles J. Glidden, donor of the trophy from which the tour has taken its popular name entered the pace-making automobile which none of the contestants can pass and followed Pathfinder Lewis out Michigan avenue towards Kalamazoo, the first stop.

Starter Ferguson then took his place at the starting line armed with his green flag and the drivers seated themselves ready for the signal. A Premier car had the distinction of being the first contestant sent off on the long journey. Then at intervals of one minute the names and numbers of the other drivers were called by the starter. Each driver was handed his time card as he went over the line and a great cloud of dust along Michigan avenue signified that the run had begun.

MURDER CHARGE

Against Philip Dinezzo of Providence

PROVIDENCE, July 12.—Philip Dinezzo, 37, was arraigned in the sixth district court this morning before Judge Gorman on a charge of murder of Alfred Manini, his brother-in-law, last night in this home at 8 Barker street. Dinezzo, who is in the last stages of tuberculosis, pleaded not guilty to the charge and was held without bail for trial July 23. An effort will be made to have him released on bail or in the custody of a deputy sheriff as his family says that if he is locked up for any length of time he will die. Doctors support this statement.

ENJOYS FREEDOM

ALEXAN ARZOOIAN SAID TO BE IN CONSTANTINOPLE

WORCESTER, July 12.—Information has been received by Armenians here that Alexan Arzooian for whom the police scoured the country for two years because of his alleged complicity in the murder of the wealthy rug merchant, H. S. Tavastanian, a New York, is now in Constantinople enjoying his freedom. Arzooian published an Armenian newspaper in Boston and was president and chief worker of the Hanchegh society which upon his disappearance reported its treasury depleted. Copies of a paper bearing the same caption as the former Boston paper and said to be published by Arzooian in Constantinople, have been received by Worcester Armenians.

FACTORY BURNED

Big Plant at Salem Depot Destroyed

The factory of the F. C. Woodbury Shoe Co., at Salem Depot, N. H., was destroyed by fire last night and as a result over one hundred hands are thrown out of work. The fire had a good start before being discovered, and though the fire departments from Salem and the Depot worked hard in order to save a portion of the structure the blaze had gained such headway that the firemen were unable to cope with the flames.

The building was four stories high with an addition of two stories high. The fire started about six o'clock last night and spread rapidly owing to the fact that the building was a frame affair. The building was about 30 years old and the wood very dry and once the flames got started it was almost impossible to stay them until the building had been reduced to ashes.

The Salem Depot fire department, aided by the Salem department, under the direction of Chief John Stevens, did what it could to stop the progress of the blaze, but its efforts were useless, as they had no fire engine, and were forced to rely upon the hand pumps.

By 7 o'clock it was seen that the building was doomed, and by 7:30, the work was completed, notwithstanding a force of 20 men who fought hard and valiantly against an uneven fight. The loss will total probably $25,000 on stock and building, and it is not known whether or not this loss is covered by insurance. The authorities are at a loss as to the cause of the fire, inasmuch as there has been no fire in the building since Saturday noon, when the operatives left the factory. In the opinion of the owner, the blaze must have been started through a spark from a railroad train, the tracks being in close proximity to the building.

MATHEWS MEETING

The regular meeting of the Mathew Temperance Institute, held yesterday, was largely attended by members. President Gallagher occupied the chair and two new members were admitted. Five propositions for membership were received. A report from the picture show committee brought forth considerable discussion and the report was re-committed. The board of trustees has installed a new system of bookkeeping and will recommend at least one new amendment to the constitution at the next meeting.

MATCH IS OFF

NEW YORK, July 12.—The match between Sam Langford and Stanley Ketchel scheduled to take place at Ely, Nev., has been declared off by Joe Woodman, manager of the negro pugilist. Woodman declared that Ketchel is not entitled to demand $20,000 out of a purse of $25,000 and that Langford went flat for a few cents. Woodman says that his man is willing to fight Ketchel for a fair division of the purse.

STAR THEATRE

A cool, well ventilated interior with a program that possesses a great deal of variety and appeal are the main factors in keeping up the attendance at the Star theatre on warm days. Amateurs will be in tomorrow night's program and a big show is assured. The program today is entirely new. "The biggest and best show in Lowell for five cents" is the performance at the Star theatre and the admission includes a seat.

Mrs. James Shalis of 14 Weed street has gone to join her husband in Fulton, N. Y., to spend the summer.

CRUSHED TO DEATH

Frank McFarland Killed on Middlesex Street

Frank McFarland, aged 35 years, of Waltham, was crushed to death against a building in Middlesex street just above the depot Saturday night and Raymond Yetten, also of Waltham, who was unconsciously the cause of the man's death, was later arrested and a charge of manslaughter preferred against him.

Both men were employed by the Gibbs Express Company of Waltham. Yetten as chauffeur and McFarland as helper. Saturday afternoon the men came to town in a dray which carried a piano and other paraphernalia to be installed in a new establishment in Middlesex street, just north of the railroad tracks and about opposite the Creamery lunch.

Yetten backed the machine flush with the curb and McFarland and three other men lifted the piano to the sidewalk and were preparing to carry it into the store when an electric car approached. The dray was in the path of the car and Yetten jumping onto the seat opened the throttle with the intention of running the machine ahead and allowing the car to pass. He evidently had forgotten that he had the reverse lever thrown on and when he turned the power on the dray instead of going forward started backward and before he could bring the big truck to a standstill it backed up over the curb and onto the sidewalk.

The four men had lifted the piano from the sidewalk and were going into the doorway when the machine crashed against them. The collision caused them to lose their hold on the piano and McFarland who was on the ladder end was pushed with great force against the corner of the window casing and forced half way through the window by the piano. The three other workmen who escaped with slight bruises immediately started to extricate McFarland from his position.

The ambulance was summoned and a hurry trip was made to St. John's hospital but McFarland died on the way.

The body was later taken to the parlors of Undertaker Peter H. Savage in Worthen street where it was examined by Medical Examiner Meigs, who signed the death return "death caused by crushed chest."

In the meantime Patrolmen J. H. Clark and O'Sullivan took charge of Yetten and after consulting with headquarters, placed him under arrest. Later the prisoner was bailed in the sum of $100.

McFarland was a moulder by trade, but did other work when his business was dull. He is survived by a wife, Emma, and a son. He lived at 290 Newton street, Waltham.

Yetten was arraigned before Judge Pickman in police court this morning on a complaint charging him with manslaughter. At the request of Lawyer F. B. Kendall, of Boston, the case was continued till Friday morning.

WANTED

A CASE OF ECZEMA

Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Eczema or Ulcers that has baffled all doctors' skill and other medicines.

Dr. Taylor's Eczema Remedy will positively cure it—the worst kind of case or no pay. Sold by Billingswood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Dr. Taylor Remedy Co., Philadelphia, Pa. Gentlemen:—For nearly twenty years I suffered from Eczema, which assumed the appearance of dry white scales which covered my whole body. At times the itching and burning was unbearable. In the morning I could gather up the scales in handfuls from the bed. I have tried every remedy I ever heard about. Doctors could not help me. Two months ago I commenced using Dr. Taylor's Eczema Remedy, and today I am practically cured.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—Prof. Simon Newcomb, the astronomer, died at his home in this city early yesterday at the age of 74.

Prof. Newcomb will be buried with military honors in Arlington cemetery next Wednesday. High officials of the government will attend the funeral and the honorary pallbearers will include many prominent men in public life. The body will lie in state Monday and Tuesday at the family residence.

Prof. Newcomb is survived by his wife, a daughter of the late Dr. Haskins, surgeon, U. S. N., and three daughters, Dr. Anita Newcomb McGee

REV. DR. BARTLETT VISITED HOTELS

Preached at Kirk Street Church. Simon B. Harris Warned Hotel Keepers

Rev. William A. Bartlett, D. D., of Chicago, occupied the pulpit at the Kirk Street church, yesterday, and will occupy it next Sunday and the Sunday after. Dr. Bartlett is a former pastor of the Kirk Street church and he is always glad to come and speak to his old friends. His subject yesterday was "The Open Door." He pointed out the many doors of opportunity that the Christian church has for the extension of its work.

Speaking of the work being carried on in his Chicago church, he said that financially was not as strong as the Kirk Street church, since its former congregation had largely moved away with the changing conditions in the life of the great city; and yet it had established a work of the greatest importance among the unchurched and those in lowly circumstances, and was able to finance it because men there looked upon the church as a good financial investment, and were willing to put money into it in order that it might extend its sphere to influence along humanitarian as well as purely theological lines.

STOLE HIS ROLL

New Friends Robbed Man of $200

BOSTON, July 12.—Grant Brent, a rascally lumberman from New Hampshire, while sightseeing yesterday met three men who apparently were interested in his welfare. They immediately acted as his guide and when they unconsciously left him Brent found that his roll of $200 had gone.

Grant got busy right away and with a keen scent soon rounded up two of the trio. Grabbing the latter by the arm he held onto him until Detective Delaney placed him under arrest.

At Station 1 the arrested man gave the name of William Cummins, 21, who says he lives in North Adams. Happy in the thought that he had at least caused the arrest of one of the men, Brent left the station in search of the other two. Up to a late hour last night they had not been arrested.

Recent told the police that he had gone to several offices with the three men and that they had an interesting chat about the price of lumber and the market for it in Boston. Everything went along smoothly he says until the corner of Washington and Third streets was reached. One of the men then suggested that Brent step into the doorway as he wished to speak privately with him. According to the police this was the signal for the other two men to pounce upon the stranger. While one went through his clothes the other patted him against the side of the doorway and then absconded with the roll.

FOR BABY'S SAKE

Then his skin will be free from itching, chafing, and fragrant, fresh, and all soreness. The original and best baby powder.

NEW YORK, July 12.—A small fortune in money and gems has been discovered secreted in the clothing of Elizabeth Donegan, the mysterious woman who was found last Thursday night by a patrolman crouching in a Brooklyn doorway and was sent to the observation ward of the Kings county hospital by Magistrate Furlong of the Gates avenue court.

The woman was hungry and apparently penniless, but at the station house the matron found $2.50 hidden about her clothing, and the nurses at the hospital discovered, sewn next to her corsets, two bank books showing deposits of more than $8000, $655.56 in cash, 10 unset diamonds, a gold watch and chain and other jewelry.

The woman said she was a servant. It was learned yesterday that about 50 years ago Elizabeth Donegan worked as a servant in the family of Mrs. Caroline Schilling, now dead, at 22 Marion street, for 18 months. As she worked for that small amount more than 22 years, relatives of Mrs. Schilling cannot understand how the servant could have accumulated nearly $7000 besides valuable jewelry.

Mrs. Schilling's family consisted of herself, two sons, George and Joseph, and her two daughters, now married. Mrs. Andrew Earl and Mrs. Frederick Florent of Hackensack, N. J.

When Mrs. Schilling was about to die, members of the family say the servant was called in with George Schilling to witness her will. It happened to the son George all of her estate, consisting of the Marion street home and two bank books. Only one bank book was found. The other heirs fought the will, but lost their case. George Schilling has since died.

Mr. Earl, son-in-law of Mrs. Schilling, said yesterday that he and his wife had visited the Kings county hospital and that Elizabeth Donegan had told them that George Schilling gave her the gold watch and other jewelry. Where she got the $7000 the old servant failed to explain, but the Earls intend to question her again today.

Mr. Earl said that when Mrs. Schilling died in 1885 her home was searched for money and only $90 was found. This was hidden behind a picture frame. Fifteen or 20 years ago the Schilling brothers supplied her with money every month, but there was apparently nothing to show for it, and the sons wondered.

Elizabeth Donegan, the servant, was faithful and thrifty. After Mrs. Schilling died she stayed in the house for a few years. When the house was broken up she went to work for a Mrs. White at $7 a month.

Only a week ago Elizabeth Donegan called at Mrs. Earl's home and asked for food and lodging. There was no room in the house, but Mrs. Earl gave her food and a place to sleep in another house. She was in a pitiable condition and made the Earls smile by asking that word be sent to Mr. Higgins of Babylon, L. I., that she wanted him to witness her will. She wanted to make one, she said, because relatives were trying to get her wealth. She left the next day and nothing was heard of her until she was sent to the hospital.

TO ROB SAFE

TWO ATTEMPTS MADE AT ASHAWAY, R. I.

ASHAWAY, R. I., July 12.—Two attempts were made to blow open the safe in the Ashaway National bank building here early this morning, but the men were frightened away by the loud reports and secured nothing. Towns people were awakened by two heavy explosions between 1 and 2 o'clock this morning and some of them looked out their windows to see what was the matter. The sight of a man standing in front of the bank building with a brace of drawn pistols kept anyone from trying to go outside. Some three hours later an investigation was made and it was found that the outer door of the safe was twisted and torn but that the three inner doors were intact. Burglar tools of the finest quality were scattered around the floor. The bank officials would not say how much money was in the vault but they admitted that there was over $5000.

PRES. TAFT WILL MAKE EXTENDED WESTERN TRIP THIS FALL

WASHINGTON, July 12.—Indications multiply that President Taft's announced itinerary for his western and southern trip this fall will be materially extended. The president himself did not include in the tentative list which was published all of the places where he expected to stop long enough to make an address and hold a brief car-end reception. The itinerary was made up of those cities where the president will spend from one to three days.

Strong efforts will be made by congressmen and state officials to have the president stop for a few minutes, at least, at nearly all of the towns of appreciable size through which his train will pass in the daylight hours. Already the president has been bombarded with such requests. He has suggested to all of his callers and correspondents that they take the matter up with him later in the summer when the plans for the trip are actually under consideration.

During the trips he has made thus far, the president has adhered to the policy of journeying in a single private car attached to regular trains. The trips have been comparatively short, however, and on them the president has been bothered with as little public business as possible.

Secretary Carpenter has remained behind in the White House to look after routine affairs and has communicated with the president at rare intervals.

Or his far-western trip, a special will be absolutely essential if the president is to make stops at any of the smaller cities which dot the way between the larger centres of population, which he already has announced his intention of visiting.

The president expects to be away for two months on this trip and will have to carry a complement of stenographers, clerks and telegraphers in addition to his secretaries. Thus far the presidential party has been confined to the chief executive, Captain Archibald V. Butt, his military aide, Assistant Secretary Mitchell, Maj. Arthur Brooks, who, in addition to being the president's confidential messenger, is commanding officer of the First separate battalion of colored troops in the District of Columbia, and two secret service men—James Sloan, who was with President Roosevelt for seven years, and "Jack" Wheeler, who accompanied Mr. Taft from the time of his election to office.

DETROIT, July 12.—Armed with shotguns, ropes, revolvers and other weapons, a mob of 500 enraged men tried to take Frank Bradley, accused of attacking 17-year-old Mary Oberholzer, from Deputy Sheriff Louis Lubs yesterday, for the purpose of wreaking summary vengeance on the prisoner. The officer, after a lively fight, landed his prisoner in the jail at Oakwood, a suburb of this city. The girl was attacked as she was passing some bushes. She fought bravely and escaped, although in the battle several of her teeth were knocked out. She reported the attack to the police, accusing Bradley, who was captured after a chase of nearly two miles. On the way to the lockup the mob appeared.

FALL RIVER	0	2	2	2	0	3	1	1	0	—11

There were about 600 fans at Spaulding park this afternoon to witness the game between Lowell and Fall River. An ominous cloud hung over the diamond and threatened to stop the game at almost any minute. Danzig was out of the game with the hand which he injured several weeks ago and Huston covered first base. Whitridge was on the slab for the home team while Fred Reiger, the ex-Connecticut leaguer, was on the mound for the visitors. Tommy Duffy, formerly of Lowell, and a substitute umpire in the New England league, was the decision maker and in the second inning he got into trouble with the Lowell aggregation as a result of a rank decision on his part. The game was called at three o'clock the batting order of the teams being as follows:

Lowell	Fall River
Venable 2b	ss Weaver
Fitzpatrick 3b	of Messenger
Uniac 1b	if Devine
Huston 1b	3b McDermott
Howard 1b	1b Solbraa
Bannon 1b	2b Nichols
McDevitt 1b	c Lemieux
Boyle c	p Reiger
Whitridge p

First Inning
The first inning was finished in jig style. Weaver sent a grounder to Fitzpatrick and was retired at first. Messenger and Devine sent grounders to Uniac and failed to reach the initial bag.

In Lowell's half Vandergriff and Fitzpatrick fanned the breezes and Uniac hit to Weaver and was third out.

Score—Lowell 0, Fall River 0.

Second Inning

Fall River scored two runs in the second inning, one of the runs being a gift from the umpire who was not onto his job. Bowcock opened with a single to left field. Bowcock followed with a single to left field. Bowcock and McDermott then worked a double steal. Boyle in throwing to third threw bad and Bowcock scored. Solbraa sent a fly to short right field which looked as though it might be a Texas leaguer and McDermott who was on third started for home. Fitz caught the ball, but before he caught it McDermott started for home. The ball was sent to third and McDermott should have been called out but the "ump" was asleep at the switch and dreaming that McDermott left the base after the ball was caught allowed the run to count. Kicking against the decision by the Lowell players amounted to nothing. Nichols foul bled to Venable, Lemieux drew a base on balls and Reiger struck out.

For Lowell Huston flied to Bowcock, Howard singled to right field, and Bannon singled to center field but the two local men died on bases as McDermott and Boyle sent flies which Messenger gathered in.

Score—Fall River 2, Lowell 0.

Third Inning

Two more for the visitors in the third inning all on account of an error. Weaver opened with a single. Messenger, the next man up, bunted and Boyle threw the ball to first. Fitz covering the bag, Fitz dropped the ball. A passed ball advanced the men on base, placing Weaver on third and Messenger on second. Devine flied to Fitz. Bowcock singled by Uniac and Weaver and Messenger crossed the plate. McDermott sent out on a fly to Fitz and Solbraa hit to Whitridge and died at first.

In the latter half of the inning Whitridge went out on a fly to Messenger. Venable flied to Bowcock. Fitzpatrick struck out.

Score—Fall River 4, Lowell 0.

Fourth Inning

The visitors made 3 to 2 in the fourth inning. Nichols started the ball rolling with a single. Lemieux sent him along to second with a sacrifice. Reiger went out on a fly to Howard. Weaver then came to bat and wasted the best chance when Howard's head to the center field for a home run seeing Nichols and himself. This is one of the few home runs which have been made inside the fence at Spaulding park. Messenger flied to Uniac and was third out.

The home team took the ice in the latter half of the inning by scoring two runs. Uniac struck out and Huston drew a base on balls. Howard smashed the ball to deep center field for a clean three bagger and Huston scored. Bannon hit to Weaver and was out at first but Howard scored on the play. McDermott went out on strikes.

Score—Fall River 6, Lowell 2.

Fifth Inning

Sharp fielding on the part of the home team prevented the visitors from scoring any runs in the fifth. Devine opened with a single. Bowcock bunted a foul fly in back of the plate which Boyle gathered in. McDermott flied to Bannon and Solbraa hit to Fitzpatrick and was out at first.

In Lowell's half Boyle flied to Reiger. Whitridge hit to Weaver and was out at first and Venable hit to Solbraa and failed to reach first.

Score—Fall River 6, Lowell 2.

Sixth Inning

The sixth inning was a heart breaker for the Lowell aggregation for in that inning the visitors sent three men across the plate. Nichols was the first out on a fly to Howard. Lemieux drew a base on balls and he went to third on a single by Reiger. Weaver sent a fly to Howard in deep center field and Lemieux scored on the put out. Messenger hit to deep center field for three bases and Reiger scored. Devine single scoring Messenger. Devine struck out.

Fitzpatrick singled and Uniac followed with a fly to Bowcock. Huston hit to Weaver who threw to second getting Fitz and Nichols sent the ball to first for double play.

Score—Fall River 9, Lowell 2.

Seventh Inning

Whitridge was taken out in the seventh inning and Curnane who arrived in Lowell from New Bedford this noon, was put on the slab. He allowed the visitors to score another run. McDermott was given a free pass and Solbraa slammed the ball to center field for three bases scoring McDermott. Nichols hit to Uniac and was out at first. Lemieux drew a base on balls and Reiger struck out. Lemieux tried to steal second on the third strike and was thrown out by Boyle.

Howard hit to Weaver and died at first and Bannon followed with a base on balls. McDermott hit to Solbraa and was second out and Boyle hit to McDermott and was out at first.

Score—Fall River 10, Lowell 2.

Eighth Inning

In the eighth inning Weaver got a lucky hit down the third base line and he travelled to second on a sacrifice by Lemieux and scored on Devine's single to left field. Bowcock got a Texas leaguer back of second base and Devine went to third. McDermott hit to Uniac who tagged second and threw to third for a double.

Curnane hit along the first base line to Solbraa and was out. Venable hit one too hot for McDermott to handle and got on first. Fitzpatrick flied to McDermott and Uniac hit to McDermott and was out at first.

Score—Fall River 11, Lowell 2.

Ninth Inning

In the ninth inning Solbraa flied to Howard. Nichols hit to Venable and was out at first. Lemieux flied to Curnane.

Huston hit to Weaver who fumbled this being the first error made by Fall River during the game. Howard hit a single to center field and Huston started to slide and Howard for second. The ball was thrown to the second baseman and he threw bad to first. Huston scored but while Howard was sliding to get second was thrown out. Bannon flied out to Devine. McDermott got a single to center field. Boyle hit to McDermott and was out at first.

The Old Board Is Out, But Is The New Board In?

THE LAW NOT COMPLIED WITH

Have we a police board in Lowell? That's the question.

Although Mayor Brown has appointed a new police board to succeed the old, it is a legal question whether he has yet fulfilled the requirements of the law in providing a new board for the city of Lowell.

The law calls for a board of three members representing both political parties. Mayor Brown's board consists of but two members representing but one political party.

The act constituting the board, states that the board of police shall consist of three members who shall be sworn to the faithful performance of their duty. Of the three gentlemen appointed by Mayor Brown only two have qualified, so that we have not as yet a police board of three members sworn to the faithful performance of their duty as the law requires.

Hon. Charles S. Lilley has not qualified as a member of the police board and is, therefore, not yet a member although appointed by Mayor Brown. No man can be a member of the police board legally with the power to do business until he has qualified according to law. Had all three members qualified, two being a majority could transact business, but where only two have qualified according to the meaning and import of the act constituting the board, it is questionable whether they have a legal right to act as a police board.

It is further required by the act of the legislature that both political parties shall be represented on the board. Hon. Charles S. Lilley is supposed to be the democratic member while Simon B. Harris and Winfred C. MacBrayne are the republican members. On this point also it would appear that the intent of the law has not been carried out, as but one political party is thus far represented on the board.

This is a question that will have to be decided without delay inasmuch as the two members who have qualified on the board are assuming all the authority vested in the full police board for the transaction of business.

The old board is out, but is the new board in? If not, then we have no police board in Lowell at the present time.

GENERAL SHAKEUP

Of Police Dept. Intimated by Mr.
MacBrayne

Mayor Brown and his appointees to the board of police, Messrs. Harris and MacBrayne, met at the office of the board this afternoon and the three were in session for an hour or more. So far as could be learned the meeting was for the purpose of discussing the methods to be adopted by the board as well as to look over the property in the office.

Mr. MacBrayne, in conversation with a representative of The Sun, stated that in the course of a few days, when Judge Lilley returns from the west, the board will get right down to business.

That it is the intention of the new members to make a general shakeup in the department is evident from what Mr. MacBrayne said. In referring to the fact that the board intended to reorganize the department, he said that if it is necessary there would be a general reorganization of the department from top to bottom in order to bring about the reforms advocated by the mayor in his inaugural.

BROWN-TAIL MOTHS

Insignificant Flights Puzzle The Entomologists

Entomologists in Lowell as well as elsewhere are puzzled by the current vagaries of the brown tail moth. So far as that unwelcome visitor has established precedents, his habit in this region has been to appear in vast swarms of moths about the first of July, but observations to date show that this season there is, at any rate, great delay, and the additional possibility that some unknown parasite has been preying upon the pest in wholesale fashion.

For several days sporadic specimens of the white-winged insects have been observed flitting about the street lights in the evening, but their numbers have in no case been great, and according to some observers there has been a tendency in the last day or two toward a decrease rather than an increase in the number.

Compared with the records for 1908, the big flight of the moth is at least a week behind time. There is, of course, the chances that it may begin within a day or two, and when it comes, it may be a record breaker, for there was no falling off in the number of caterpillars earlier in the season; but, on the other hand, there is the undoubted fact that it has not yet begun.

and this is the circumstance that the entomologists are trying to explain.

Cool weather may have had much to do with the delay. That is, however, a point upon which there is not absolute certainty. Mr. Whitet, superintendent of parks, in an interview with a reporter of The Sun gave as his opinion that the flight of the moths was delayed because of the cold weather. Since then, however, the weather has been warm enough, we imagine, to warrant the wedding flight of the brown tail. The fact remains that the study of the brown tails has not been carried on long enough to establish scientific exactness on the subject.

The other possibility falls under the head of the things that are almost too good to be true. If some native parasite has tackled the brown tails effectively, while the government experts have been ransacking Europe for deadly foes of the moths to import into this country, it means a lot to the population of New England. It is known that a few native parasites have begun work to a limited extent, but not a great deal is known of their present capacity.

What Are Penalty Prices?

"Penalty Prices" is a new advertising term employed by the Merrimack Clothing Co. It means the prices made on winter clothing after Christmas and on summer clothing after the Fourth of July—to move them out at once. They are drastic, un-bling, and heart-rending to the management, but they are consolation prices for the purchasing public and apply in every department.

GREAT CATCH OF FISH

BOSTON, July 11.—There was a rush of business at T wharf, the fish center of the city, when incoming vessels landed 10,000 pounds of swordfish, 10,000 pounds of red, haddock and pollock and 10,000 pounds of mackerel. One of the sword fishermen, Captain Stanley, of the schooner Nokomis, reported an exciting fight with a swordfish which after being harpooned at 11:30 A. M., he fought for two hours. The fish was badly damaged and one of the crew injured by contact with the back of the fish.

LATEST CHURCH BELL

Presented the Lawrence Street P. M. Church

The formal exercises incidental to the new 1000 pound Blymer bell by the Lawrence Street Primitive Church took place yesterday forenoon. The bell was presented by the church by Thomas L. Wilde and William G. Parker, two members of the congregation. The program of the exercises was as follows: Singing of "Holy, Holy, Holy," by the choir, under the direction of Samuel Burt, and the congregation; Lord's prayer; singing of "The Lord's Prayer"; responsive reading; hymns; lesson; notice of offering; anthem; choir; presentation by William G. Parker; acceptance by the pastor; dedication sermon, Rev. John Mason, D. D., of Pascoag, R. I.; hymn and benediction by the pastor.

In his presentation speech Mr. Parker said:

"If there is one comfort greater than another to a person who has nothing to say at such a time as this, it is the realization of the fact that having nothing to say, he can announce that fact, take his seat and enjoy the remainder of the program unmolested."

"I can truly say that I have not burdened my mind with the smallest idea to present you. On this occasion I have not taxed my memory with anything, and hence have no taxes to pay. I am simply presenting my brother, or whatever one's calling may be it is his duty to respond, especially if he cannot escape, as in my case. It is an old saying, that the time to sit down is when an audience wants you to speak longer. In my case, if I wanted to speak longer you would want me to sit down."

"With these few words I will, therefore, in behalf of my Brother Wilde and myself present to the members of the Lawrence Street Primitive Methodist church this bell, to be used at their discretion for the furtherance and advancement of the Christian cause in Wiggwiltville."

The bell was accepted by Rev. Mr. Ullom, in behalf of the church, and his words were few but appropriate. He said that the bell was a gift from the people of the church, and that the church was proud to have it. He said that the bell was a gift from the people of the church, and that the church was proud to have it. He said that the bell was a gift from the people of the church, and that the church was proud to have it.

An alarm from box 24 yesterday afternoon summoned a portion of the fire department to a building in South street to extinguish a blaze caused by a defective chimney.

ANNUAL OUTING OF THE PUBLIC SCHOOL JANITORS HELD SATURDAY

The annual outing of the Lowell public school janitors was held Saturday at Mountain Rock grove and was attended by a large number of the janitors and their friends. A fine list of sports was carried out during the afternoon, the feature of the day being a baseball game between the janitors and employees of the lands and buildings department. The game was won by the janitors by the close score of 5 to 1.

Among the guests present were Inspector Dow, Peter A. Mackenzie and several others.

The committee which had charge of the arrangements consisted of Arthur Dana, chairman, Michael Finnegan, Henry Driscoll, Terrence Casey and Joseph Provost.

KILLED BY FALL

BOSTON, July 12.—Thomas J. Fitzgerald, 4 Gould street, an employee of the city of Melrose, while engaged in moth extermination work Saturday fell from the top of a 35-foot tree on West Foster street and died two hours later at the Melrose hospital.

Fitzgerald was considered the most daring climber in the moth department. While working on a dead limb Saturday, the limb broke and Fitzgerald was thrown to the ground, landing on his head.

TRYING TO FLOAT COLLIER

NEWPORT, R. I., July 12.—Under weather conditions in every way favorable the Artuckle wreckers started another attempt to float the stranded naval collier Nero today. The first efforts will be devoted to removing the sharp rocks which punctured the Nero's side.

Then the compartments will be filled with compressed air and the hull is expected to float. The engineers today could not estimate the time that would be required.

RACING SEASON OPENS

WOONSOCKET, R. I., July 12.—A five days' meeting at the driving park in this city will be begun this afternoon opening the harness racing season in New England. The card for today included three events, a 2:29 and 2:30 pace and a 2:20 trot, each for a prize of $300.

JIM JEFFRIES SAYS THAT HE WILL NOT FIGHT JOHNSON

MONTREAL, July 12.—Jim Jeffries said positively last night that he won't fight Jack Johnson under any considerations. The big champion is here giving an exhibition of boxing. He gave as his reasons lack of confidence and reluctance to fight a colored man. He said:

"I won't fight Johnson for I have decided to quit the fighting game. I can't get into the class, and besides I don't want to fight a colored man. I would like to see the champion fight a white man, but I can't go in to defend myself. There are plenty of men who can train this man Johnson, and I wouldn't be surprised to see some Meuser get the belt. The fans can count me out, though."

GRAND SHOWING Made by St. Peter's Holy Name Society

OVER 900 MEN AT COMMUNION
SUNDAY

Rev. Fr. Burns Pays Touching Tribute to Late Rev. Michael Ronan—Solemn Requiem at St. Peter's Tomorrow—Other Catholic News

The quarterly communion day of St. Peter's Holy Name society yesterday was by far the most successful held since the reorganization, over 900 members approaching the altar railing. It was particularly pleasing to Rev. John Burns, the zealous spiritual director, who has labored early and late for the success of the organization.

The members assembled at the Fair hall at 7:30 o'clock and headed by Pres. Wm. F. Daly and Vice President Richard Lyons, marched to St. Paul's chapel where services were reserved in the main aisle as well as the side aisle. Rev. Fr. Burns was celebrant of the mass and he was assisted in giving communion by Rev. Daniel J. Heffernan. The Holy Name choir under the direction of James E. Donnelly rendered Von La Roche's mass, soloists of the mass being sung by Messrs. Donnelly, Lyons and Mahoney. John J. Kelly presided at the organ. After the announcements had been read Rev. Fr. Burns spoke a word of commendation to the men on the magnificent showing saying that it was a striking manifestation of loyalty to the society.

He referred feelingly to the death of Rev. Fr. Ronan as an irreparable loss to the society, for whose welfare and success he was ever solicitous. Fr. Burns said that Fr. Ronan always instructed him to leave no stone unturned at all times to further the interests of the society and its members. He said that he is a great loss to the society as well as to the parish, for he had looked forward since the mission to this, the first communion day of the society, as a proud day in the history of the parish. We miss him this morning, Fr. Burns said, for he always stood in his accustomed place, looking after the seating of the members and otherwise providing for their comfort.

Fr. Burns then exhorted the members to offer up their communion to God for the repose of the soul of the pastor, that he may enjoy eternal happiness. He said that he himself served so long and faithfully whom he loved so much and for whom he prayed so much.

There were few dry eyes in the chapel as Fr. Burns concluded his sermon.

After mass the prayers of thanksgiving were offered up by Rev. Fr. Burns and the service closed with the singing of "Te Deum." The usual breathfast and exercises were omitted yesterday out of respect to the memory of Rev. Fr. Ronan.

In the evening the members assembled in the chapel again for the regular monthly session. The usual breathfast and exercises were omitted yesterday out of respect to the memory of Rev. Fr. Ronan.

Rev. John T. O'Brien celebrated the 9 o'clock mass and also delivered the sermon. At the offertory Miss Harriet Moran, in a beautiful soprano voice, rendered "Ave Maria."

Mass for Fr. Ronan
At 5 o'clock tomorrow morning a solemn high mass of requiem will be celebrated for the repose of the soul of the late Rev. Michael Ronan. This mass will be given at the request of the Ladies' auxiliary, O. H., of which organization the deceased priest was chaplain for many years.

Sacred Heart Church
The Holy Name society senior and junior branches of the Sacred Heart church received holy communion in a body at the 5 o'clock mass. It was the regular quarterly meeting of the organization and a large number was present. Mass was sung by Rev. T. Wade Smith, O. M. I., Rev. Lawrence Tighe, O. M. I., spiritual director of the society, preached the sermon.

The junior members meet this evening in the school hall for their regular monthly session, and the senior branch of the organization will assemble tomorrow evening, when important business is to be transacted.

$25,000 DAMAGE
CAUSED BY FIRE IN WEST MEADOW ROAD
The fire which broke out in woodshed belonging to Thomas Vaynau in the West Meadow road Thursday afternoon and which broke out periodically Friday and Saturday, was, it is believed, finally extinguished last night. The flames swept over one hundred acres of land and did damage to the extent of $25,000.

The standing timber that was damaged by the fire destroyed 300 cords of wood belonging to Constable Elie C. LaBorde and 100 cords the property of Thomas Vaynau.

IN POLICE COURT

Young Man Up for Breaking and Entering

Delore Delbon, a young man, was arraigned before Judge Pickman in police court this morning on a complaint charging him with breaking and entering Oswood's drug store, corner of Merrimack and Suffolk streets, on the night of June 22, and attempting to commit larceny therein. He said that he did not break into the place, but was with the three fellows who did. He was standing on the opposite side of the street watching for the police officers, but they came on him so suddenly that he did not have time to notify his pals of the danger they were in. He took to his heels.

Patrolman Bagley, who arrested Delbon, said that Delbon told him that his mother had turned him out of the house and he was starving and that he and three other fellows arranged to break into the place.

Delbon said that on the night of the break while he was standing guard on the opposite side of the street from the store his three companions entered the place. A couple of police officers came into the store so suddenly that he took to his heels.

While the local court has jurisdiction in cases of this kind, under the new law, which went into effect on July 1st, Judge Pickman held Delbon for the grand jury, inasmuch as the three young men who were with him were arraigned in court before the first of the month and held for the grand jury.

Cruelty to a Horse
The case of Herbert McConnell, charged with cruelty to a horse, was continued till Thursday.

Assault with a Knife
George Tanglis, aged 25 years, was arrested Saturday afternoon by Patrolman D. Murphy and William Glavin, charged with assault with a knife. Tanglis and a fellow countryman named John Pans got into an altercation in the mixup that followed, it is alleged that George drew a knife and inflicted a slight wound on companion. The weapon was taken away from him.

Pans was in court during the early part of the session, but when the case was called he could not be found. The case was continued till Wednesday.

Non-Support Case
Charles J. Hill pleaded not guilty to a complaint charging him with failure to provide support for his wife, Laura J., since the first of May.

According to the testimony offered, Mr. Hill is the wife about the first of May and since that time, though the man was working every day, he neglected to contribute towards the support of his wife. Mrs. Hill testified that her husband drank heavily and that a good portion of the money he earned was used for drink.

Hill was found guilty, but given a chance to make amends and do right.

FUNERALS

HUBBARD—The funeral of John Hubbard, the little boy who was drowned Monday evening, took place Sunday afternoon from the home of his parents, 4 Jewett avenue, and was largely attended. There were many beautiful floral offerings, the little grave being completely covered. Among the flowers were the following: A large pillow of roses and carnations inscribed "Our John" from the family; a basket of roses and white carnations from Mr. and Mrs. I. O. Ramsdell; spray of white carnations from the Leahy and Kourke children; spray of pink, Mrs. Guyette; large spray of white carnations with ribbon inscribed "Playmate" from Larkin Sullivan; spray of white carnations from Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Wilson; large spray of pyrethrum from the Connors family; spray of pink from Mrs. Napoleon Willett; spray of pink, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Burbank, and a spray of sweet peas from Mabel and Jennie Wilton.

The bearers were six little playmates and were: Masters Paul Sullivan, Eddie Ogara, William Guyette, Freddie McCann, Larkin Sullivan and Bennie Kourke. Burial was in the family lot in the Catholic cemetery and was in charge of Funeral Director James W. McKenna.

ADAMS—The funeral services of Miss Emma J. Adams were held yesterday afternoon from the home of her sister, Mrs. W. A. Lang, 719 Chelmsford street, at 2:30 o'clock, and were largely attended by her many friends and relatives. Rev. J. Clement Wilson, pastor of the church, officiated.

THOMAS—The funeral of Mrs. Clara Thomas took place yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock from her late residence, 204 Westford street. The services were conducted by Rev. Charles E. Fisher, pastor of the First Unitarian church. The bearers were: Fred E. Jones, Joseph N. Kidden, Charles E. Fisher, and Albert C. Benson. Burial was in the family lot in the Catholic cemetery in charge of Undertaker George W. Hixley.

PERRELLA—The funeral of Manuel Perrella, the child who was strangled on Saturday night, took place yesterday afternoon from the home of his parents, 112 Appleton street. Burial was in the Catholic cemetery in charge of R. H. McLaughlin & Sons.

DOYLE—The funeral of the late Mrs. Margaret Doyle took place yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the home of her son, Mr. Patrick Doyle, 130 Mansfield street, and was largely attended by her many friends and relatives. The funeral services were held at St. Patrick's church, where Rev. Fr. Burns celebrated the mass. The bearers were: Messrs. Patrick Doyle, Thomas Doyle, Daniel Doyle, and John Doyle. Burial was in the family lot in the Catholic cemetery in charge of Undertaker George W. Hixley.

THOMAS—The funeral of Mrs. Clara Thomas took place yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock from her late residence, 204 Westford street. The services were conducted by Rev. Charles E. "Send Him Away," Said Wife

Adolph Tessler was charged with being drunk and before sentence was passed on him his wife stated that she desired to say a few words about him. She told Judge Pickman that she and her husband had not lived together for six or seven years and that while she did not care for his company she was anxious to have him contribute something towards the support of their two children.

Mrs. Tessler told the court that she wanted Tessler sent away but the judge failed to draw out of the woman any good reason why he should send the man away. Tessler was turned over to the probation officer.

Arrested on Capias
John Smith, otherwise known by a name which the clerk of the court had great difficulty in pronouncing, was arrested Saturday night by Patrolmen J. H. Clark and T. Riley on a capias for drunkenness. It seems that some time ago Smith was arrested for drunkenness and was bailed out. When the case was called in court Smith failed to answer and a capias was issued.

When he was arraigned in court this morning there were three complaints against him. At the request of Lawrence J. Joseph, who appeared for Smith, the case was continued till tomorrow morning, bail being placed at $500.

Playing Cards
While the officers were searching the house for Smith they ran into a quiet game of cards in one of the rooms. There were four men seated at the table and they were so interested in the game that they did not know of the presence of the custodians of the peace until the latter informed the quartet that they were under arrest. When booked at the police station they gave the following names: Mattos, Tawonek, Adam Bolter, Marsel Bar, lower and Bolos Markwick. Each was charged with playing a game of cards on the Lord's Day. They pleaded guilty and fines of $3 each were imposed.

Case Continued
The case of Edward Flynn, charged with assault and battery, was continued till Aug. 10.

Drunken Offenders
Martin Roach, charged with drunkenness, put up such a good plan for alibi that Judge Pickman decided to give the man another chance to do better.

Peter Boudreau, a parole man from the state farm, will be returned to that institution.

There were several simple drunks.

of the Chelmsford Street Free Baptist church, officiated.

OSMOND LONG, who sang "Lead Kind Light," "My Heavenly Home," and "Christian's Good Night." The many beautiful floral offerings indicated the high esteem in which she was held. The bearers were Messrs. James Speirs, Calvin Smith, Fred Jenness and Frank Payton. Burial took place in the family lot in the Edison cemetery.

Rev. Mr. Wilson read the committal service. Mr. William H. Saunders of the Horace E. Co. had charge of the funeral arrangements.

DAVIS—The funeral of Oliver J. Davis took place yesterday afternoon from the home of his son, Charles O. Davis, 719 Middlesex street, Rev. C. E. Fisher, officiating. There was singing by the Apollo quartet. The bearers were: Chas. O. Davis, Percy E. Davis, and George A. Pinder. Burial was in the Edison cemetery under the direction of C. M. Young.

DUREN—The funeral of Mrs. Sarah M. Duren took place yesterday afternoon from her home in West Billerica, Rev. Mr. Marshall officiating. The bearers were: Messrs. George Coleman, J. E. Tromblay, and A. Phillips. Among the floral tributes were the following: Pillow inscribed "Wife from the husband" wreath, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Prescott and daughter; spray, Joseph Wilson and family; wreath, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Duren and Mrs. Mrs. Juron Phillips; spray, Miss Agnes Duren, Miss Ade Duren and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Duren. 1000 DELEGATES Expected at Catholic Convention

Expected at Catholic Convention

BOSTON, July 12.—Clergymen and laymen of the Roman Catholic church from all parts of the country were arriving in this city today to attend the annual convention of the Catholic Educational association, of which preliminary meetings were scheduled for this afternoon and evening. The formal opening comes tomorrow morning and the sessions will continue until Thursday night. The president-general of the association is Right Rev. D. J. O'Connell, auxiliary bishop of San Francisco.

It is expected that the total number of delegates present will be in excess of 1000.

The program provides for a discussion of many phases of the educational work of the church. One or two large public meetings will be held.

TO RESUME WORK
CINCINNATI, O., July 12.—The Newport, Ky., rolling mills which have been long idle, will resume operations tomorrow, giving employment to 500 men.

President A. L. Andrews of the company stated that all except possibly one of the pits have orders enough to keep them going for a year.

STOP LYNCHING
Authorities Worked a Clever Ruse

PITTSBURGH, July 12.—Only a ruse by the authorities of Connorsburg and Morgantown here prevented the lynching early today of a man who was arrested at midnight in connection with an attack on Lydia Spade, 12 years old, while she was in a berry patch close to the child's home.

Believing the man had been captured, about Connorsburg jail at midnight today, a rope was thrown over a tree and a demand was made of the jail officials to surrender the assailant. Chief of Police Swan assured the angry crowd that no arrest had been made and appealed to all present to institute a hurried search for the criminal. The appeal went and headed by officials the crowd separated into searching parties who scoured the vicinity until, just as daylight in the meantime Joseph Johnson of New Cumberland, Va., who had been arrested as a suspect, was kept hidden in the jail and today is heavily guarded by extra policemen. Johnson will be given a preliminary hearing tonight.

COL. POPE ILL
BOSTON, July 12.—Friends of Col. A. A. Pope, bicycle and automobile manufacturer, were made anxious today by reports that Col. Pope who has been ill for some months, had recently improved. It is said that the colonel's condition has declined steadily for several weeks. The sick man is now at his summer home at Cohasset, Mass.

SUPT. PUTNAM
Talks About Paving of Merrimack Street

Newell E. Putnam, superintendent of streets, says it will be impossible for his department to pave Merrimack street before the time set for the automobile races.

There are places in Merrimack street," said Mr. Putnam, "where the tracks will have to be raised eight inches. The street always was too low for the curbing and it will have to be raised. The street railway company will have a lot of work to do before we get in and it would be useless to tackle the job with the expectation of getting through before Labor day week, and of course it wouldn't do to have Merrimack street torn up during carnival week.

The work in Middlesex street is going along splendidly and we hope to finish with that job in about two weeks. Then we will tackle Bridge street and I think we will have time enough to do the Merrimack street job after carnival week and before very heavy frosts in."

Mr. Putnam said he thought that the work of lowering the Prescott street sewer would be finished before Labor day, so the only street that will be torn up during carnival week will be Bridge street.

C. E. CONVENTION
ST. PAUL, Minn., July 12.—The delegates to the 24th international Christian Endeavor convention today began the last day of the convention with the quiet hour service beginning at 7:45 a. m. Conferences and addresses in several churches of the city took up the next hour.

At 10 a. m. the delegates assembled in the auditorium. "Thy Kingdom Come in All the World" was the theme of this meeting. One address was on "How Christian Endeavor is helping to bring in the kingdom" made by Rev. Albert Fulton.

Christian Endeavor extension throughout the world was reviewed by F. N. Lathrop and William Shaw, treasurer and secretary respectively of the society.

Simultaneously with the auditorium meeting an exposition of civic, moral and religious progress of Christian Endeavor work was held in the armory.

At noon an evangelistic service was held.

ANYONE DESIRING TO LET ROOMS during the carnival week of the auto races can do so by calling on the location and accommodations which they can furnish at the Richardson hotel. By so doing they will get all the hotel can accommodate. Terms will be decided upon before the races. Rooms will be easy of access to those coming to the hotel.

NIGHT EDITION

AWARDED MEDAL

Charles A. Lyle Saved Life of 12-Year-Old Boy

For saving the life of 12-year old Paul McCaffrey, the Massachusetts Humane society has presented to Charles A. Lyle, of 137 Stockpile street a medal and a button. The medal is of silver, properly engraved, and the button bears the society's seal. It is but recently that the society adopted the plan of giving the button in addition to the medal. The medal comprises a solid leather case and is very pretty. It was in July 1908 that Charles Arthur Lyle, then 14 years old, leaped into the race way near the tannery in

THE THAW CASE

Fight for Release From Asylum Begun in Earnest Today

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., July 12.—Harry K. Thaw's efforts to prove himself a sane man and fit to be released from the Matteawan asylum for the criminal insane began in earnest before Supreme Court Justice Mills here today. Thaw's mother, Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw, his sister, the former Countess of Yarmouth, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Thaw sat near the prisoner during the proceedings. Thaw followed the testimony and frequently coached his lawyer in his questions to the witness. Richard E. Lansing, a real estate dealer of Poughkeepsie, the first witness called, testified that he had conversed with the plaintiff on a variety of subjects at different times and that Thaw always appeared coherent and rational. Oscar Mulford, another citizen of Poughkeepsie, who was formerly a watchman at the Dutchess county jail, testified that he saw Thaw every night from 7 until 9 o'clock. He had discussed electricity, hydraulics and the construction of reservoirs in the Catskills for New York city frequently with the plaintiff and Thaw showed a clear

ANNUAL REUNION ALL AMENDMENTS

Of the Grand Lodge of To Philippine Tariff Bill Elks Rejected

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 12.—Elks by the thousands flocked to Pasadena early today, the first entertainment provided for the members of the organization now gathered in this city for the annual reunion of the grand lodge taking place there this morning. The grand lodge members and their escorts were provided with automobiles and after a trip over the city, were deposited at Tournament park where athletics, chariot races and feats of horsemanship were provided for their entertainment. At noon a monster barbecue was served and following that there was a realistic stage held-up enacted. This afternoon a number of athletic events are being held at Asot park in this city, and thousands of the visitors were attracted there, while others are enjoying themselves at the seashore.

HOME GUARDED

"Black Hand" Letters Sent to Lima Man

LIMA, O., July 12.—The Home of Henry Dimes of the Dimes-Warner Mfg. Co. and a wealthy man of Lima is being guarded by police on account of "black hand" letters received by Mr. Dimes. Threats that his house would be dynamited and that he and his family would be killed unless $10,000 was paid to the "black hand" of Lima were made in the letters. The entire police system is in operation for the purpose of ferreting out the writers of the letters.

UNUSUAL HONORS ACCORDED

WASHINGTON, July 12.—A military presentation of the colors of the army and navy in regard to the battle of officers who command vessels given in official circles by an answer to the report that units and boats were awarded of United States, St. Louis, United States marine corps, whose death at Annapolis in 1907 is now to be threatened for the second time. It is declared that the military practice is to accord military honors to an officer who takes his own life and in the case of Lieut. Stevens it is maintained that the authorities at Annapolis follow the established practice.

CATHOLIC EDUCATORS

Including Nuns to Meet in Convention at Boston

Nearly all the nuns teaching in the local parochial schools, here, are going to Boston to attend the sixth annual convention of the Catholic Educational association which is to be held in Boston college, tomorrow, Wednesday and Thursday. The attendance and scope of the convention has been greatly enlarged this year through the efforts of Archbishop O'Connell. Many of the delegates arrived in Boston yesterday, prominent among them being Rev. Denis J. O'Connell, bishop auxiliary of San Francisco, formerly rector of the Catholic university at Washington and president general of the educational association. The bishop reached Boston about 5 yesterday afternoon and went to the Hotel Lenox, the headquarters of delegates. He seemed in the best of health and though tired from his long trip from California said that he is ready to take up the work of the convention. He left San Francisco just a week ago and came by way of Washington, where he stopped for a short visit to the university, where he was cordially received. Afterward he went to Baltimore and there was the guest of Cardinal Gibbons, who, he says, is enthusiastic over the work done by the educational association. "The cardinal," said Bishop O'Connell, "is honorary president of the association and feels a deep interest in its work. He told me that he expects that this convention held in Boston, the acknowledged center of education of America, will prove most beneficial to the cause of education. The cardinal is in perfect health and seems very active."

WENT TO PRISON

LONDON, July 12.—Fifteen of the suffragettes who during the raid on the house of commons, June 29, broke windows with stones hidden in brown paper parcels, went to prison for a month today rather than pay the fines inflicted by the magistrate. Sir Albert Derwent, the Bow street magistrate. Sir Albert commented severely upon the lamentable spectacle of respectable women in the dock on charges usually associated with juvenile hoodlums. The suffragettes, most of whom made short speeches, claimed that their offenses were purely political. The course of Premier Asquith in refusing to receive their petition, they said, had made militant action necessary, and if the women were in the wrong, Home Secretary Gladstone, War Secretary Haldane and John Burns, president of the local government board, who had invited them by taunting them with the statement that they were using "pin prick methods," ought to be beside them in the dock.

FINES OF $355

Were Imposed On Residents of Lowell and Dracut

MANCHESTER, N. H., July 12.—Twelve who arraigned the prisoners at fourteen persons, residents of Lowell and Dracut, Mass., were fined an aggregate of $355 before a special justice in Betham yesterday.

CYCLONIC WIND STRUCK ST. LOUIS

ST. LOUIS, July 12.—A cyclonic wind struck St. Louis and suburbs at noon today. Telegraph and telephone wires were blown down. In St. Louis county trees were uprooted. The wind struck the steamer Alton as it passed with 300 passengers from St. Louis through the draw of the bridge at Alton, Ill., 25 miles north of here. The steamer was swung around until part of the wheelhouse was torn off against the pier of a bridge. The boat was jammed there. The wind picked up wagons and threw the horses and drivers to the ground. Because of trolley wires being torn down electric cars in some parts of the city were stopped for an hour.

AUTO COURSE

WAS INSPECTED BY ROBERT EADE OF INDIANAPOLIS

Robert Eade of Indianapolis, one of the manufacturers of the Premier automobile, accompanied by the Boston selling agent of the machine, was in Lowell the other day and both were taken over the Merrimack valley course. Mr. Eade came to this city for the purpose of looking into the course and arrangements and considering the entrance of a Premier car in the race. After going over the course he said that if some of the brush on the back road was cleared away it would be one of the best in the country. Before leaving Lowell he informed Secretary McKenna that he would have one or more Premier cars in the races to be held here in September. Secretary McKenna has also received word that an Allen-Kingston car will be entered. President John O. Heinze of the Lowell Automobile club, who has been in Detroit conferring with the officials of the Three A's is expected home tonight. The committee on tickets and advertising committee of the carnival will meet tonight at the board of trade rooms in the Central bank and tomorrow the board of governors will meet in the same place.

MILITIA IN CAMP

PORTSMOUTH, July 12.—The coast artillery section of New Hampshire militia went into camp here today in the presence of Gov. Henry B. Kimball and staff. The companies came from Louisiana, Texas, Exeter and Portsmouth. The United States coast artillery company stationed at Fort Constitution will participate in the manoeuvres of the citizen soldiers.

PERSONALS

Miss Gertrude Dooley, the little daughter of Police Officer J. J. Dooley, is spending her vacation with her aunt, Mrs. M. J. Slavin of East Boston. Mr. James Fagan of Newhall street, the popular clothing salesman, is enjoying a short vacation, a part of which will be spent at Nantasket.

AMATEUR BASEBALL

It is expected that the Lowell Americans and the Sanctuary boys will be matched to play next Saturday. "Ducky" Wheeler, formerly with Haverhill, N. E. league, is in town, and if not signed by some of the league teams, will undoubtedly do the twirling for the Americans next Saturday.

LOWELL 5 BALL TEAM DEFEATED THE LOWELL EIGHT

Lowell 5 ball team defeated the Lowell Eight light team Saturday afternoon by the score of 12 to 5.

ST. LOUIS, July 12.—Destructive tornadoes at Panama, Ill., and Kenia, Ill., are reported in special dispatches from those towns. At Kenia four persons were injured and several buildings were destroyed. No one was hurt at Panama, but the property damage was considerable.

BASEBALL NOTES

Bill Sharry, the Somerville boy, is playing with the Collegian team at Atlantic City.

Hickman, the Brockton player, who has been out of the game because of rowdiness, has been reinstated and fined $30.

Harrington of the Tri-State league has released Swaine, who was with Pittsburgh last year, and Bill McCarthy, the Roxbury boy, who has been catching.

Mike Doherty has received an offer of $5000 to manage the Stockton team of the California league, but turned down the offer as he intends to leave for Europe July 13.

Chick Autrey, who was picked up to play first base for the Braves, when they were on the last western trip, has been sent to Lynn of the New England league. President Doherty says he will be given the pick of the Lynn team at the end of the season in exchange.

Manager Helder of the Harrington club of the Tri-State league will put up a fight for Martell, who was sent to the back of the line when he was 24 years of age, stands 5 feet 2 inches and is considered very powerful. Martell was tried to induce Henderson, the sensational pitcher, whom the national commission awarded to Cleveland, to sign.

AN ARMISTICE DECLARED

WASHINGTON, July 12.—An armistice has been declared in the Colombian revolution pending a conference between General Holguin, the acting president, and Gonzales Valencia, whom the opposition element is urging for the office. This information reached the state department today.

COMMUNION DAY

MEMBERS OF THE Y. M. C. I., AT-TEND IN A BODY
The Y. M. C. I. held its quarterly communion and breakfast yesterday morning, about 250 members attending mass in a body at 7.30. The breakfast was served in the institute rooms and following this came a musical and literary program which proved very enjoyable. The speaker was Howard E. Ryan, state attorney, who spoke on "Savings Bank Life Insurance and Old Age Pensions."

The program also included numbers as follows: Songs, James McNulty; songs, Edward Shea; song, John McCaffrey; song, James Donnelly; selections, Y. M. C. I. quartet; recitation, Edward McQuaid.

At the regular business meeting it was voted to install three new bowling alleys before the winter season.

YOUR BACKACHE WILL YIELD

Rockland, Maine.—"I was troubled for a long time with pains in my back and side, and was miserable in every way. I doctored until I was discouraged, and I thought I should never get well. I read a testimonial about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and thought I would try it. After taking three bottles I was cured, and never felt so well in all my life. I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all my friends."—Mrs. WILL YORK, 6 Columbia Avenue, Rockland, Me.

To Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The great volume of unsolicited testimony constantly pouring in proves conclusively that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has restored health to thousands of women. We never publish a testimonial without the special permission of the writer, and then only when we are sure it is genuine. Such testimony should create confidence in all suffering women.

CIVIL SERVICE RULES

Some Startling Disclosures if Investigation is Held

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The threatened investigation by congress of the civil service commission will be welcomed, so far as the civil service commission itself is concerned, Gen. Black, president of the commission, says, and the men who are behind the movement to have congress turn the affairs of the commission inside out say some very startling disclosures will be revealed, and it is also added that when these disclosures come out ex-President Roosevelt may find he has more important things on his hands than hunting lions in Africa.

It has been charged that the department in Washington are filled with incompetents and that a great many men and women have been admitted to the government service who were not required to pass the strict examination that was supposed to be taken by every person before receiving an appointment.

Complaints About Deadwood

Both Secretaries Ballinger and Nagel have complained of the deadwood in their departments and have been weeding out the incompetents.

One of the reasons, it was said, that the civil service law has not been enforced is the fact that the director of the census, Mr. North, and Sec. Nagel, which ended by the resignation of the former, was the secretary's discovery that the census bureau was filled with men and women who had been appointed at the request of influential persons and members of the house of representatives, and that the president had enabled them to do the work required of them.

The civil service law makes it obligatory that a person shall be a bona fide resident of the state from which he is appointed and shall take the examination there. This law has been violated in the past by the fact that a few days ago the civil service commission gave notice that only those persons who are legal residents of the District of Columbia could take the examination here and that all others must be examined in the states in which they claimed residence.

It was said that some 300 persons in this city, but who claimed legal residence elsewhere, were affected by the order, which is conclusive evidence that the law had not been observed.

The charges against the administration that he persistently ignored the civil service law and the spirit of appointment and promotion solely on merit by suspending the civil service regulations, whenever he had a friend to appoint or a favorite to promote. The president is given power by executive order to waive the civil service requirements and to permit a person to be appointed without examination or irrespective of the quota to which the state is entitled.

This privilege is supposed to be used sparingly, and only to meet sudden emergencies, as when it is necessary to appoint a professional or technical expert and a man conspicuously qualified for the place is known to be willing to accept it. Men of that character often refuse to enter into competition for an appointment, nor is it certain that a competitive examination would secure the best man for a place of that kind.

Roosevelt's Way

Presidents Cleveland, Harrison and McKinley rarely suspended the rules, but Mr. Roosevelt did it repeatedly. During Mr. McKinley's four years and six months' incumbency of the White House he suspended the law three times, once at the request of Mr. Roosevelt, so that he might appoint Gifford Pinchot, chief forester, and the other as to appoint Ex-Senator Gen. Tyner law officer of the postoffice department and his son-in-law, Harrison J. Barrett his assistant.

Mr. Roosevelt suspended the law 315 times. Under his predecessors the civil service rules as to the men working in the departments in Washington or in the postoffice in Boston.

When Mr. Roosevelt wanted a colored barber he had him transferred from one of the departments and sent to the White House.

Congressmen knew these things, but were afraid to open their lips. Mr. Roosevelt had been an original civil service reformer; he was at one time a civil service commissioner and he was always talking of his devotion to the cause of civil service reform. He had such a contempt for politicians that he often publicly denounced them and vetoed a "spoils" census bill.

But now that Mr. Roosevelt is no longer in the White House the lips of members of congress are opened and they say the time has come to have some real reform. In Washington one hears that the merit system has practically broken down.

Not one man in a hundred advocates a return to the old order when "pull" was the only thing that counted and whenever a senator or representative died all the persons who owed their appointments to his influence were made to walk the plank. There has been a very great improvement in the morale and efficiency of the government employees and for that reason most men want the law rigidly enforced and those persons dismissed who came into the service through the back door of "executive suspension," or else made to stand an examination to show that they have the ability to do the work for which they are drawing salaries.

The charge made is that persons who were irregularly appointed had nothing to commend them except executive favor, and while they are enjoying comfortable salaries other persons with greater abilities are doing the work at lower remuneration.

EARLY MARRIAGE

ADVOCATED BY REV. FRANCIS J. BUTLER

BOSTON, July 12.—The Rev. Father Francis J. Butler of St. Leo's church, Dorchester, at the 10.15 o'clock mass yesterday spoke on "Matrimony" in part as follows:

"Young couples should enter into the married state before they have attained the age of 20 years. Parents should interpose no objections to these so-called early marriages.

"Wedded couples should own their own homes. They should have many children to bless their hearths and make happy their declining years.

"Publicity should be a feature of the entry into the married state. All weddings should be performed in the church and accompanied by the full company provided therefor.

"Girls today in many cases earn the same, or very nearly the same, salary as men. In consequence there are those who fear to give up their salaries for the unknown alternative of marriage. This should not be so. Matrimony is the natural state of man and woman.

"The girls of today care altogether too much for dress, fashion and display."

ST. LOUIS' CHOIR

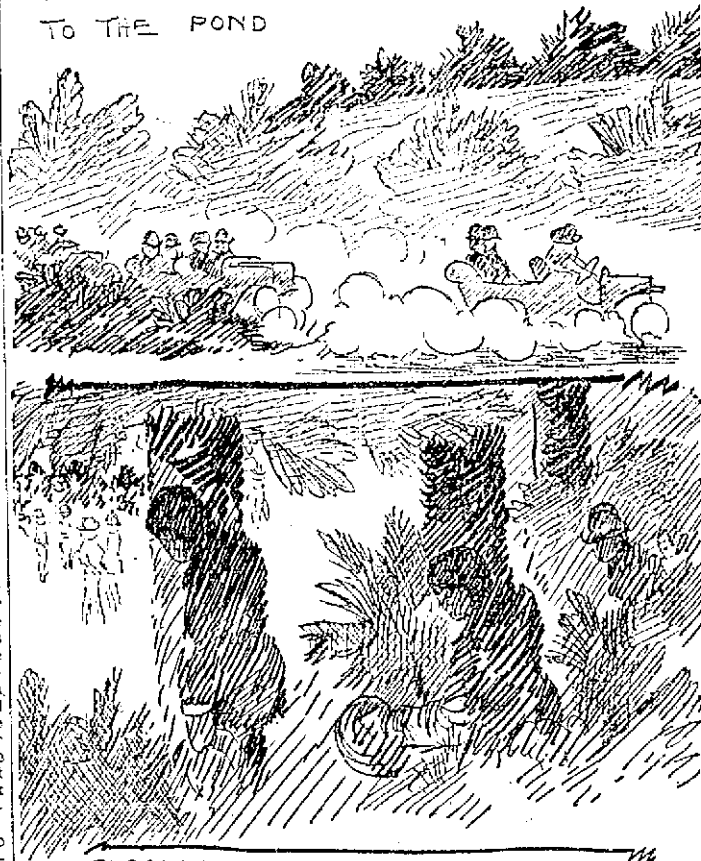

HELD OUTING AT BOUCHARD'S FARM

The members of St. Louis' choir, together with Union Sainte-Cecile, whose members are for the most part of the choir also, had a very pleasant outing yesterday afternoon at the Bouchard farm in Dracut. Adolphe Bouchard, proprietor of the farm, is a member of both the choir and the union. An appetizing dinner was served in the farm house, the rest of the day being pleasantly spent out of doors with boating and other outdoor diversions. There was also an interesting program of music in which participated Jules Morissette, Emory C. Gaudin, Ernest Perron, Olier J. David, Dr. T. D. Chagnon, Elzevir J. Laroche and others.

NEW HAMPSHIRE POLICE RAIDING A CAMP AT LONG POND

14 Arrests at Tom Scully's Place at Long Pond

After a dash across the country in four automobiles, Sheriff Frederic K. Ramsey of Manchester, and 15 deputy sheriffs, inspectors and policemen yesterday swooped down on Thomas Scully's resort in Pelham and arrested the proprietor and 13 men. The charges against them vary from keeping for sale down to being drunken and disorderly. The raid was one of the most dramatic that has been conducted in this section for some time and is one of a series that Sheriff Ramsey has been carrying on for some time.

The Manchester Union describes the raid as follows:

A week ago complaint came to County Solicitor Alvin Boisvert of Manchester of the existence of Scully's place at Long pond in Pelham, just a few rods across the Massachusetts line from Dracut. At 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, armed with the necessary papers, Sheriff Ramsey and his men left Manchester, and coming through Nashua went to Pelham, about a mile and a half beyond Cutters Corner.

The trip was made through Nashua, Hudson and Pelham Center to a point below Pelham Center called Cutters Corner. Here the party left the automobiles and took to the woods and a partially used wood road. It was all the world like an Indian trail—at times the officers pushing through the brush, hardly able to see where they were going. In fact, it was a blind trail, and in the worst country some of the men had ever seen.

After going about a mile and a half the police took their bearings. The first token of vice they came across was a drunken man under a tree.

After going a short way farther and getting out on high ground the police could look down on the place, where there was a sort of a dance pavilion that had seen better days, and perhaps 150 people lounging around, some of them playing cards, others stretched out under the trees in various stages of intoxication, and some of them in groups wandering here and there. The sheriff's men were somewhat surprised on finding such a crowd, and it was decided that, as it would be impossible to take in the entire bunch, the best way would be to attack the pavilion or the headquarters where the drink appeared to be and where the gambling was going on.

The sheriff's men was a sight. They were dusty and dirty and hot, and ready to do most anything to get out of the woods into a clearing. The sheriff decided to make for the pavilion. The men were detailed out into a semi-circle, and they closed in upon the building.

The sheriff and his men dashed into the place, and held up Scully, the proprietor and the bartender, and then the sheriff warned the crowd to remain quiet, that he did not wish any serious trouble, but there would be trouble if any attempt at resistance was made.

The sheriff and his posse, once inside the pavilion, began to sort out the men that wished to make prisoners. The pavilion had something in the tar and distant past been used for a dance hall. The structure was perhaps seventy feet long by thirty feet wide. The windows were battered out, and the building had seen better days. When the posse arrived, four men were playing cards, and the money was out in plain sight on the cards. These men were snatched up for gambling at once.

Scully, the proprietor, was taken on two counts, keeping for sale and selling, and the bartender, McGrath, was charged with selling.

Then the police set out to gather in the drunks. There were eight of them. Some of them were sleeping off their debauch under the trees and others were free with their tongues and had to be violently hushed up by the officers.

It appears that the only convenient way to get to this scene of carousal was by a little steamer, which plied over a little body of water called Long pond. This pond is so narrow that it is more like a river. The steamer carried the passengers from the Litchett shore on the other side to the place, where the pavilion was used for the sale of liquor. The crowd could get away only by the route taken by the steamer. The other way they would have run into the officers, who had come through the woods. This fact, the sheriff made known to the gang when he landed in the pavilion with his deputies.

How to get the prisoners to Manchester was another thing. It was finally decided to send into Pelham and ask for a special trolley car, so an automobile was sent into that town and the superintendent of the trolley line was asked for a special car.

The car was sent down to Cutters Corner, where the automobiles had been left, and the string of prisoners was marched a mile and a half through the woods and placed aboard the car, under guard. The raid was made at about 1.30 o'clock in the afternoon, and at dusk the entire crowd—fourteen in all—were landed at the Haverhill county jail and turned over to Judge Phinney.

The prisoners are as follows: Thomas Scully of Dracut, Mass., keeping liquor for sale and selling; Harry McGrath, bartender, selling; Gamaliel Thomas, Rochester, N. H., selling liquor.

The sheriff's men were somewhat surprised on finding such a crowd, and it was decided that, as it would be impossible to take in the entire bunch, the best way would be to attack the pavilion or the headquarters where the drink appeared to be and where the gambling was going on.

The sheriff and his men dashed into the place, and held up Scully, the proprietor and the bartender, and then the sheriff warned the crowd to remain quiet, that he did not wish any serious trouble, but there would be trouble if any attempt at resistance was made.

The sheriff and his posse, once inside the pavilion, began to sort out the men that wished to make prisoners. The pavilion had something in the tar phone Parent, Wilfred Thibodeau and Joseph Salvas.

Drunks, James Meade, James M. Dane, Peter F. Meade, Louis Putnam, Patrick Flood, Patrick O'Neill, Louis Plouride and Ernest Claven.

The raid was made through tips that had been received from the Massachusetts authorities by County Solicitor Alvin Boisvert, who notified Sheriff Ramsey, and the officials had been at work on the case for a week.

The place where the drinking and gambling were being conducted was in one of the wildest places in Hillsborough county, which could not be reached by car line nor traveled by road, and was but a few rods the other side of the Massachusetts line.

The complaint was made to County Solicitor Boisvert about ten days ago, and Sheriff Ramsey at once got busy.

Saturday Sheriff Ramsey saw Chief Hickey and requested the loan of ten policemen, which the chief freely granted. Then, taking six deputy sheriffs, the party was ordered to meet at a certain place in Manchester at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, all in citizens' dress, but fully armed.

The raiding party was made up as follows: Sheriff Ramsey and Deputy Sheriffs L. C. B. Burke, T. B. Beaudry, John Jaquith, J. L. Beaudry, Robert Buntin and Michael Ryan, and Inspectors O'Dowd and Hildreth, and Policemen Lynch, Shea, Dwyer, Brown, Faye, McGrath, Bourke and Graf. These men were not informed where they were going until the journey had progressed a considerable distance out of the city. Four automobiles were used in carrying the party.

TWO CHARGED

MEN ARE ACCUSED OF HIGHWAY ROBBERY

HAVENHILL, July 12.—Charged with attempting highway robbery, Geo. Bodek and Stanislaus Peroz, both Polishers, are held in custody by the local police, awaiting a hearing before Judge Fuller in the district court.

Both men were arrested early yesterday morning by Patrolman Howard K. State on complaints received from William Greenburgh, a storekeeper on River street, who alleges that he was held up by the men near his home on Ayer street at midnight, and Samuel Ravach and Mundal Ishral, who claim to have been held up by the men earlier Saturday night.

Greenburgh claims that he was suddenly attacked by the men on Ayer street as he was leaving his home, and that one of them threatened him while the other attempted to rob him. His courtesies caused them to take flight and they were captured a short time later and identified by the alleged victims as their assailants.

MAN DROWNED

SEIZED WITH CRAMPS WHILE IN BATHING

LAWRENCE, July 12.—Harry Fearnley, aged 27, was drowned in the Stickett river at Methuen at 7.15 last night. He was bathing with four companions and was seized with cramps, sinking before help could reach him. The body was recovered by Chief of Police Gordon and Patrolman Beaumont and brought back to Lawrence.

Fearnley lived at 452 Broadway, and had recently returned from a visit to England. He was employed as a waiter in the Arlington hotel. During the Spanish-American war he served in a volunteer company.

LOWER CONCORD A MENACE TO HEALTH.

Unless something be done to clear the lower Concord river of the accumulations of filth that have choked the stream it may soon cause pestilence to spread throughout the city. This river is the outlet for sewers, for the scourgings of mills, the Rendering works, the tannery of the American Hide and Leather company and various other factories. For years the accumulations of filth have been growing until now when the water is low, they are a veritable menace to the public health. The river has received no attention for many years, all kinds of junk, sewage and offal being dumped into it in the meantime. Below the Rogers street bridge there is a ridge of filth in the middle of the river on which grass and weeds are growing. The mud or gatherings are piled as high as the dam in the rear of Scripture's laundry.

The dangerous state of the river is shown by the fact that boys who went in bathing there during the hot spell were poisoned and a number of them are now under medical treatment. The city authorities are responsible for the condition of this river and its injurious effect upon the public health. If it be not the duty of the city to provide a remedy, then the corporations responsible for the present condition of the river should be compelled to clear the stream of the ever increasing obstructions or else leave sufficient water at all times to cover the entire bed of the river below the Rogers street bridge. The city itself by emptying its sewers into that river is partly responsible for the accumulations but not for locking up the water at any time during the week.

It is noticeable that the river is much lower on Sundays than during the week. From this it appears that the water is dammed up and turned into the canals in order to hoard the water power for the ensuing week. That should not be tolerated. Why menace the public health in order to effect a slight saving in power for certain companies along the banks of the river?

What the people would like to know is, how long will they have to endure this nuisance or will it be allowed to continue until it causes an epidemic?

REWARD OF MERIT IN THE FACTORIES.

Editor Sun: I wish to thank you for your editorial of Friday last in which you say that one of the things the mills must do if they want to beat the south is to reward merit among their help. You never said a truer thing in your life for the way things go now, there is no inducement to anybody to improve. It is favoritism and not merit that rules and this is bad for the mills and bad for the operatives. It serves only the favored few at the expense of the company. Hoping you will give us more on this subject.

I remain Respectfully Yours,

It is very evident that the mill in which there is no inducement to improve will never attain excellence in any line. When an employee who has been working for years with a view to promotion finds somebody else brought in to fill a vacancy that he should fill as a reward of years of faithful work, he naturally loses interest in the success of the factory. He does not care whether it wins or loses. The only interest he can feel consists in looking upon it as a means of earning a mere livelihood. How different would he feel if he found his faithful service rewarded by promotion whenever a vacancy occurs which he is qualified to fill. This question of encouraging self-improvement among the operatives by recognizing merit is one of vast importance to the factories and to the people. It is one of the things upon which the success of the factory largely depends. Only let the operatives understand that those who work hard to improve their efficiency in their respective lines will thereby improve their chances of advancement, and there will be a steady endeavor to do better work. This will result in a gradual improvement in the general efficiency of all the operatives and of course in turning out more perfect work. But let the operatives feel as do three-fourths of them at the present time, that the doors to promotion are barred against them, that it is useless for them to improve their minds, useless to attend night school or the evening Textile school, useless to strive upward where merit is never rewarded, and what will be the result? Carelessness in work, carelessness in the use of machinery and tools, carelessness everywhere, disregard of the company's interests and neglect of their own natural endowments.

It is universally acknowledged that if we do not try to improve we shall in consequence deteriorate or go backward. Is it not then a serious mistake for the management of any mill to offer no incentive to the great mass of operatives to strive for excellence in the various lines of work in which they are employed? This is to prevent progress, to encourage retrogression and decay. It is one of the last policies that a textile factory employing thousands of hands can afford to adopt. The superintendent or the boss who gathers about him a lot of his favorites, selected not because of superior skill but because he can place them where they get good money for a minimum of skill and labor, is not the kind of man who will benefit the mill. Still worse, it is to throw out employees who through a long period of years have been faithful and efficient and devoted to the company's interests. That is the indignation of all the other employees who recognize in the change an unjustifiable act of injustice. Many a mill has been put upon the downward grade because of this very work, for the reason that the rank and file of the operatives feel that their merit is never rewarded, that they have reached the highest they can ever attain and that it is useless to aspire to anything better, useless to hope for recognition of faithful service, for excellence in work or advancement in technical skill.

At a time when our textile factories are beset with strong competition from the south, would it not be well for them to give their operatives a real and live interest in the work by rewarding merit either with promotion or increase of wages and thus afford to the operative an incentive to self-improvement and the attainment of a higher skill and excellence in their chosen work.

SEEN AND HEARD

There has been much discussion in the courts and elsewhere relative to the definition of whiskey, and while we believe that a good definition for it would be: "A good thing to be above," the following more scientific definition, taken from Pharmaceutical Lexicon, a dictionary of pharmaceutical science, etc., may be of greater value and more acceptable to the interested and curious: "Spirituous Fermented Whiskey—Spirit obtained from fermented grain by distillation, and containing from forty-eight to fifty-six per cent. absolute alcohol. It should be free from disagreeable odor, and not less than two years old."

THE TWO BONNETS

The bonnet of eighteen fifty-one. And the bonnet of nineteen-nine. What would they say if they changed to meet. And what would I choose for mine? Fashions change and the shapes are old. But the faces beneath the brim. Ah, they are the same in the sweet heart dame. As they were in the days grown dim!

Under the bonnet of fifty-one. The eyes that were twinkling then. Had the dear same look when their beams o'ertook. The gleams in the hearts of men; The old time ladies were ladies still. With youth and the eyes of blue. And never wrote sonnets to old-time lovers.

As men now write to the new! One of the bonnets of fifty-one. I saw it the other day. With its faded bows and its old primrose. And the little silk ribbons of gray. Under the attic rafters hung. Through the shadows I saw it gleam. And out of the shadows she danced and sang—

The lass of my boyhood dream!

J. M. Barrie's modesty and shrinking from personal publicity are such well-known traits of his character that it will hardly surprise his friends to learn that he has refused a title. When the recently announced royal birthday honors were being arranged, the author of "Peter Pan" was set down for a knighthood. Barrie, who is a friend of King's might apply have quoted the latter's ballad about the man who wouldn't have them make a knight of me, but he modestly declined the proffered honor politely but firmly. "I don't go in for that sort of thing," was the way in which he dismissed the matter. There are unkind persons who say that the distinction was offered to Barrie only for balance alleged to be due them on a contract for heating and ventilating apparatus in the Quebec county court house in Uxbridge, N. Y., they being sub-contractors for the Brothers, who are several good reasons for discrediting this statement, among them the fact that the author of "The Second Mrs. Tanager" was slated for a knighthood at last year's royal birthday distribution, but the nomination did not go through.

When a little girl residing in Fitchburg, Mass., she impersonated Daniel in "Daniel and Gredel" and later in Switzerland she appeared in scenes from several plays in an amateur performance. When a student at Smith college she appeared as Laureolus Golden in "The Merchant of Venice" and as Puck in "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

Graced by her relatives to attack a divorce granted in Illinois 42 years ago, Mrs. Hanna Douglas, an aged and infirm resident of Los Angeles, will be applied in a few days that the supreme court of the state of Washington has decided she is neither the wife nor the widow of the late Hiram L. Douglas, who died in Spokane in 1867, leaving a valuable estate. They were married in Michigan in 1853 and separated five years afterward, when Douglas went to Illinois, where he instituted an action for divorce, alleging desertion. The records show the degree was granted. Douglas has come to the northeast in 1888 and located on a homestead in Spokane county. He was killed in a runaway accident two years later, when his daughter and her husband, George W. Taylor, began to develop the farm, making it a valuable property. To establish her claim, Mrs. Douglas alleged she had heard of the divorce after her husband's death, and that she had not been signed and that it was procured by fraud. The supreme court ruled that it was too late to attack the divorce, thus awarding the estate to Mrs. Taylor.

SHOT TO DEATH

Bullet Entered Providence Man's Heart

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 12.—Brooding over the alleged cruel treatment of his sister by her husband, Alphonse, Philip Dienezzo, shot and fatally injured Alphonse, and the wealthy Italian in the city last night. The shooting occurred at Dienezzo's home, 5 Baker street, and in the presence of his mother, brother and three sisters, one of whom was his victim's wife, who seeing her brother aim his revolver at Alphonse, struck his arm upward, causing the shot to lodge in the ceiling. Alphonse then started to run, but his brother-in-law fired again, this time with deadly effect, the bullet piercing his heart and causing almost instant death.

CONNERS BROS.

WON SUIT BROUGHT BY MERRILL

CO. OF BOSTON

A suit brought by the Merrill company of Boston, against the Connors Brothers Construction Company of Lowell, has been decided in favor of the Lowell firm. The Merrill company brought a suit for $20,000 for balance alleged to be due them on a contract for heating and ventilating apparatus in the Quebec county court house in Uxbridge, N. Y., they being sub-contractors for the Brothers, who are several good reasons for discrediting this statement, among them the fact that the author of "The Second Mrs. Tanager" was slated for a knighthood at last year's royal birthday distribution, but the nomination did not go through.

BATTLE FOUGHT

BETWEEN COSSACKS AND ROYALISTS NEAR TEHERAN

TEHERAN, Persia, July 12.—Persian Cossacks, commanded by Russian officers, and other troops of the shah, numbering altogether 1200, made an attack yesterday morning upon the United Nationalists' forces, under Siyakhdar and Sadeghzad, at a point five miles from Teheran. Although the Royalists shelled the Nationalists' position with four guns for two hours, they failed to dislodge the enemy. Two hundred of the Cossacks advanced to within half a mile of the Nationalists, keeping up a heavy fire with machine and quick fire. The Nationalists repulsed the attack with a single gun, dropping a number of shells among the Cossacks and compelling them to retire.

No information has been received here as to the number of casualties.

FATAL JUMP

BAKER OF STR. PLYMOUTH WAS

DROWNED AT PROVIDENCE

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 12.—While trying to jump from the deck of the steamer Plymouth of Providence line, the deck at 2.30 last evening, John Ellis, colored, the baker of the vessel, missed his footing, fell overboard and was drowned. Ellis was 48 years old and a native of Barbadoes. The Plymouth had just returned from New London with a large crowd of excursionists and was being made fast to her dock at Fox Point when the accident occurred. The body has not been recovered.

He Was Shot by Young Girl Their Tendencies Discussed by Rev. Mr. Craig

NEW YORK, July 12.—Mary Leppin, a young girl, 20 years old, walked up behind Joseph Thompson, a West Indian negro youth, in a downtown apartment house where he ran the elevator, and shattered his spine yesterday with a bullet. She fired four shots, three of which lodged in the negro's body. The girl, who became hysterical after the shooting, said that she did it because Thompson had ceased to care for her. The negro will die.

HEAVY STORM

THOUSANDS OF SMALL FROGS COVERED THE SIDEWALK

UTICA, N. Y., July 12.—A message received last night from Gouverneur says that in a heavy wind and rain storm there thousands of small but perfectly formed frogs fell covering the sidewalks in Grace street to such an extent that walking was difficult. The frogs on the Rome, Watertown & Ogdensburg division of the New York Central railroad for half a mile were covered and rendered so slippery that the speed of the train was materially lessened.

MELROSE, July 12.—Attended by many well known personages in the baseball world, the funeral of Frank G. Selee, formerly manager of the Boston Nationals and the Chicago Nationals, was held in Denver, Col., Monday, was held yesterday at the Episcopal church here, where Mr. Selee attended as a young man. The services were conducted by Rev. W. T. Perrin, pastor of the church, assisted by Rev. R. M. Dickles of Cambridge.

HISTORIC PAGEANT AT GENEVA

GENEVA, Switzerland, July 12.—A historic pageant, representing the growth of science and literature in the 17th and 18th centuries, brought to a close Geneva's ten day celebration of the 300th anniversary of the birth of John Calvin. The festival was the most brilliant of the nation's life, and the world's for the nations of the world, though their representatives, united in according homage to the memory of the great thinker, writer and reformer.

AT LOS ANGELES

The Boston Elks' Party Arrived Yesterday

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 12.—With the white dust of the desert still clinging to their clothes, the Boston herd of Elks came rolling into the Salt Lake station last night, some hours overdue. Lateness has been the fate of almost every delegation that has come from the Pacific coast, that has arrived here so far. But if the Boston men were behind time and tired with the long ride they did not show it.

Greeted by members of the reception committee and the famous white squadron, for the nonce in tan uniforms, the New Englanders were taken to their quarters. The band played "Yankee Doodle" as the start was made.

There was music galore and it was a tossup which made the most noise, the Elks from the Bay state or the Elks from the sunny southern California city.

Today will be devoted to taking in the sights of Los Angeles and on Tuesday the delegates will get down to business of the grand lodge.

It was whispered both before and after the arrival of the Boston delegates that there was a division in their ranks on the question of the successor to Grand Exalted Ruler Holland. If this is so, none of the members would admit it, but smiled and waved a genial hand, as though to intimate that strife was not in the calculation.

It is almost certain that Boston will be found lined up on the side of the Baltimoreans in the contest the latter are going to make for the grand lodge meeting in 1911. This campaign promises to be lively and Boston representatives may or may not be the sentiment of the contingent from all New England, it watched very closely by the boomers from the Maryland city and their rivals from St. Louis.

TROOPS CALLED

To Quell the Riot at Sydney

SYDNEY, C. B., July 12.—Unable to cope with the lawlessness of strikers, rioters at the Inverness colliery yesterday Mayor D. H. McLeod was forced to call troops from Halifax to restore order. The Inverness colliery is owned by the firm of MacKenzie & Mann, which is not connected in any way with the Dominion Coal company, against which the three day strike is shown. The United Mine Workers of America, and they went out on a sympathetic strike last Friday.

The men of the Provincial Workmen's association continued at work in the mines, but last Saturday when they were leaving the workings for their homes, they were met by a crowd of 200 boys, men and women, mostly Catholics, who pelted them with various missiles. Soon after sticks and stones began to fly and one Provincial association workman was struck on the side of the head and received bad cuts.

The mayor and members of the town council, with thirty special and regular policemen tried in vain to keep the crowd in order. The disturbance continued until the workmen had gained the shelter of their homes.

Yesterday when General Manager Penney of the colliery arrived in town he asked that troops be sent to maintain order and the mayor complied with the request. Last evening a special train from Halifax arrived with 100 men from the royal Canadian regiment, who at once went on guard duty at the colliery. There were no further disturbances about the place last night.

The strike situation at the Glace Bay mine remained quiet yesterday.

BOLIVIA

LA PASE, Bolivia, July 11.—La Pase was given over last night to riots. The people swarmed into the streets and did much damage. The electric light wires were cut and pillaging was begun on all sides. Shots were heard in every direction. The situation for foreigners, especially Peruvian and Argentine residents, is extremely serious.

The guards protecting the Peruvian and Argentine legations were suddenly withdrawn Sunday evening, for some unknown reason. When this became known street mobs renewed their attacks on the legations, causing serious damage.

The Argentine minister, Senor Fonseca and his wife, had a narrow escape from injury. They made their way out of the legation and ran a distance of eight blocks, finally seeking protection in the home of the president of Bolivia.

THE GLIDDEN TOUR

Start of Great Event Made in Detroit This Morning

DETROIT, July 12.—With his pilot through Chicago, Minneapolis and Denver filled with confetti to mark the start of the longest and hardest run which the association ever has undertaken. Swathed in canvas and rubber coverings, 50 automobiles, signal to follow the pathfinder on the 2836 mile journey which is to take them day was crowded with automobile enthusiasts from all parts of the country. They cheered when Lewis drove away from the starting line. The twenty non-contesting cars which will carry newspapermen and officials on the trip stood about the square waiting for their owners and passengers to see the start of the competitors at 10 o'clock. Chairman Hower gave the final instructions to the corps of observers and handed to each one the sealed bag of extra parts which is carried in every car under the supervision of the observer who will see that the machine is penalized if it becomes necessary to break the seal and use any of the bag's contents. Side by side in the park across the square stood great high powered touring cars and little runabouts whose smoothness was accentuated by their big wheels. Under the rigid rules governing the contest not one of them could be touched by its driver or owner until one half hour before the start of the tour at 10 o'clock. When the signal was given the observers went to their respective cars and under their watchful eyes the drivers and mechan-

ies took off the covers of the machines and made them ready for the starting signal. Luggage was placed in the trunks and the passengers took their seats.

Twenty minutes before the first car was sent off Captain Hower and Charles J. Glidden, donor of the trophy from which the tour has taken its popular name entered the pace-making automobile which none of the contestants can pass and followed Pathfinder Lewis out Michigan avenue towards Kalamazoo, the first step.

Starter Ferguson then took his place at the starting line armed with a green flag and the drivers seated themselves ready for the signal. A Premier car had the distinction of being the first contestant sent off on the long journey. Then at intervals of one minute the names and numbers of the other drivers were called by the starter. Each driver was handed his time card as he went over the line and a great cloud of dust along Michigan avenue signified that the run had begun.

MURDER CHARGE

Against Philip Dinezzo of Providence

PROVIDENCE, July 12.—Philip Dinezzo, 32, was arraigned in the sixth district court this morning before Judge Gorham on a charge of murder of Alfred Mancini, his brother-in-law, last night in this home at 8 Barker street. Dinezzo, who is in the last stages of tuberculosis, pleaded not guilty to the charge and was held without bail for trial July 12. An effort will be made to have him released on bail or in the custody of a deputy sheriff as his family says that if he is locked up for any length of time he will die. Doctors support this statement.

ALEXAN ARZOONIAN SAID TO BE IN CONSTANTINOPLE

WORCESTER, July 12.—Information has been received by Armenians here that Alexan Arzoonian for whom the police scoured the country for two years because of his alleged complicity in the murder of the wealthy rug merchant, H. S. Tavshanjan, in New York, is now in Constantinople enjoying his freedom. Arzoonian published an Armenian newspaper in Boston and was president and chief worker of the Huntegast society which upon his disappearance reported its treasury depleted. Copies of a paper bearing the same caption as the former Boston paper and said to be published by Arzoonian in Constantinople have been received by Worcester Armenians.

FACTORY BURNED

Big Plant at Salem Depot Destroyed

The factory of the F. C. Woodbury Shoe Co. at Salem Depot, N. H., was destroyed by fire last night and as a result over one hundred hands are thrown out of work. The fire had a good start before being discovered, and though the fire departments from Salem and the Depot worked hard in order to save a portion of the structure the blaze had gained such headway that the firemen were unable to cope with the flames.

The building was four stories high with an addition of two stories high. The fire started about six o'clock last night and spread rapidly owing to the fact that the building was a frame affair. The building was about 30 years old and the wood very dry and once the flames got started it was almost impossible to stay them until the building had been reduced to ashes.

The Salem Depot fire department, aided by the Salem department, under the direction of Chief John Stevens, did what it could to stop the progress of the blaze, but its efforts were useless, as they had no fire engine and were forced to rely upon the hand pumps.

By 7 o'clock it was seen that the building was doomed, and by 7:30, the work was completed, notwithstanding a force of 20 men who fought hard and valiantly against an uneven fight.

The loss will total probably $25,000 on stock and building, and it is not known whether or not this loss is covered by insurance. The authorities are at a loss as to the cause of the fire, inasmuch as there has been no fire in the building since Saturday noon, when the operatives left the factory. In the opinion of the owner, the blaze must have been started through sparks from a railroad train, the tracks being in close proximity to the building.

MATHEWS MEETING

The regular meeting of the Mathew Temperance Institute, held yesterday, was largely attended by members. President Gallagher occupied the chair and two new members were admitted. Five propositions for membership were received. A report from the picture show committee brought forth considerable discussion and the report was re-committed. The board of trustees has installed a new system of book-keeping and will recommend at least one new amendment to the constitution at the next meeting.

MATCH IS OFF

NEW YORK, July 12.—The match between Sam Langford and Stanley Ketchel scheduled to take place at Ely, Nev., has been declared off by Joe Woodman, manager of the negro pugilist. Woodman declared that Ketchel is not entitled to demand $25,000 out of a purse of $25,000 and that Langford won't fight for a few cents. Woodman says that his man is willing to fight Ketchel for a fair division of the purse.

CRUSHED TO DEATH

Frank McFarland Killed on Middlesex Street

Frank McFarland, aged 32 years, of Waltham, was crushed to death against a building in Middlesex street just above the depot Saturday night and Raymond Yetten, also of Waltham, who was unconsciously the cause of the man's death, was later arrested and a charge of manslaughter preferred against him.

Both men were employed by the Gibbs Express Company of Waltham, Yetten as chauffeur and McFarland as helper.

Saturday afternoon the men came to town in a dray which carried a piano and other paraphernalia to be installed in a new establishment in Middlesex street, just north of the railroad tracks and about opposite the Creamery lunch.

Yetten backed the machine flush with the curb and McFarland and the other men lifted the piano to the sidewalk and were preparing to carry it into the store when an electric car approached. The dray was in the path of the car and Yetten jumping onto the seat opened the throttle with the intention of running the machine ahead and allowing the car to pass. He evidently had forgotten that he had the reverse lever thrown on and when he turned the power on the dray instead of going forward started backward and before he could bring the big truck to a standstill it backed up over the curb and onto the sidewalk.

The four men had lifted the piano from the sidewalk and were going into the doorway when the machine crashed against them. The collision caused them to lose their hold on the piano and McFarland who was on the furthest end was pushed with great force against the corner of the window casing and forced half way through the window by the piano. The three other workmen who escaped with slight bruises immediately started to extricate McFarland from his position.

The ambulance was summoned and a hurry trip was made to St. John's hospital but McFarland died on the way.

The body was later taken to the parlors of Undertaker Peter H. Savage in Worthen street where it was examined by Medical Examiner McGe, who signed the death return "death caused by crushed chest."

In the meantime Patrolman J. H. Clark and O'Sullivan took charge of Yetten and after consulting with headquarters, placed him under arrest. Later the prisoner was bailed in the sum of $1000.

McFarland was a moulder by trade, but did other work when his business was dull. He is survived by a wife, Emma, and a son. He lived at 246 Newton street, Waltham.

Yetten was arraigned before Judge Pickman in police court this morning on a complaint charging him with manslaughter. At the request of Lawyer F. B. Kendall, of Boston, the case was continued till Friday morning.

REV. DR. BARTLETT VISITED HOTELS

Preached at Kirk Street Church

Simon B. Harris Warned Hotel Keepers

Rev. William A. Bartlett, D. D., of Chicago, occupied the pulpit at the Kirk Street church, yesterday, and will occupy it next Sunday and the Sunday after. Dr. Bartlett is a former pastor of the Kirk Street church and he is always glad to come and speak to his old friends. His subject yesterday was "The Open Door." He pointed out the many doors of opportunity that the Christian church has for the extension of its work.

Simon B. Harris, who is chairman of the new board, laid down what he deems to be the interpretation of the law to the hotel men. The hotel men said that Mr. Harris laid great stress on the term "honest guest."

Messrs. Harris and MacBrayne qualified before the city clerk, Saturday afternoon. They didn't lose any time in qualifying and they didn't let any grass grow under their feet before holding a meeting. They have held two meetings already.

At a meeting held late Saturday evening Mayor Brown was present and there was a discussion of the department's affairs. It was voted to request the acting superintendent to notify the members of the department as many of them as could assemble without interfering with proper "watch" of the city to "get together" in the guard room on Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock.

The two commissioners were accompanied by Acting Supt. Welch on their tour of the hotels and here is a little of the law that Mr. Harris laid down to the hotel men:

"Your hotel under its inholder's license must be open at all times. If you close it against bona fide guests, you do so at your peril, for the law requires you to be ready to entertain them. Here is the point for you to consider. The man who comes here dishonestly, and with a subterfuge to get liquor, has no rights here on Sunday. He is the one you are now trying to keep out for two hours in the day. I want you to be the fellow for you to look out for hereafter. You are not to tell him to wait until 12 o'clock, but to wait until tomorrow. We want you to observe the provisions of your license. You must keep your doors open to those who are honestly and legally in need of hospitality, and the law is powerful to harm you when there is no offense. But when there is a subterfuge, the law does not apply."

STOLE HIS ROLL

New Friends Robbed Man of $200

BOSTON, July 12.—Grant Brent, a rangy lumberman from New Hampshire, while sightseeing yesterday met three men who apparently were interested in his welfare. They immediately acted as his guide and when they unconsciously left him Brent found that his roll of $200 had gone.

Grant got busy right away and with a heart rent soon rounded up one of the men. Grabbing the latter by the arm he held onto him until Patrolman DeLoach placed him under arrest.

At Station 4 the arrested man gave the name of William Cummings, 31, who says he lives in North Adams. Henry in the thought that he had at least saved the arrest of one of the men, Brent left the station in search of the other two. Up to a late hour last night they had not been arrested.

Brent told the police that he had gone to several calls with the three men and that they had an interesting chat about the price of lumber and the market for it in Boston. Everything went about normally he says until the name of William Cummings, 31, who says he lives in North Adams, Henry in the thought that he had at least saved the arrest of one of the men, Brent left the station in search of the other two. Up to a late hour last night they had not been arrested.

Woman Was Found in a Door-way in New York

NEW YORK, July 12.—A small fortune in money and gems has been discovered secreted in the clothing of Elizabeth Donegan, the mysterious woman who was found last Thursday night by a patrolman crouching in a doorway and was sent to the observation ward of the Kings county hospital by Magistrate Furlong of the Gates avenue court.

The woman was hungry and apparently penniless, but at the station house the matron found $250 hidden about her clothing, and the nurses at the hospital discovered, soon next to her corsets, two bank books showing deposits of more than $700, $85.00 in cash; 19 inset diamonds, a gold watch and chain and other jewelry.

The woman said she was a servant. It was learned yesterday that about 20 years ago Elizabeth Donegan worked as a servant in the family of Mrs. Caroline Schilling, now dead, at 22 Marion street, for $8 a month. As she worked for that small amount more than 22 years, relatives of Mrs. Schilling cannot understand how the servant could have accumulated nearly $700 besides valuable jewelry.

Mrs. Schilling's family consisted of herself, two sons, George and Joseph, and her two daughters, now married, Mrs. Andrew Earl and Mrs. Frederick Plourde of Hockensack, N. J.

When Mrs. Schilling was about to die, members of the family say the servant was called in with George Schilling to witness her will. It bequeathed to the son George all of her estate, consisting of the Marion street home and two bank books. Only one bank book was found. The other belts fought the will, but lost their case. George Schilling has since died.

Mr. Earl, son-in-law of Mrs. Schilling, said yesterday that he and his wife had visited the Kings county hospital and that Elizabeth Donegan had told them that George Schilling gave her the gold watch and other jewelry. Where she got the $7000 the old servant failed to explain, but the Earls failed to question her again today.

Mr. Earl said that when Mrs. Schilling died in 1895 her home was searched for money and only $80 was found. This was hidden behind a picture frame. Fifteen or 20 years ago the Schilling brothers supplied her with money every month, but there was apparently nothing to show for it, and the sons wondered.

Elizabeth Donegan, the servant, was faithful and thrifty. After Mrs. Schilling died she stayed in the house for a few years. When the house was broken up she went to work for a Mrs. White at $7 a month.

Only a week ago Elizabeth Donegan called at Mrs. Earl's home and asked for food and lodging. There was no room in the house, but Mrs. Earl gave her food and a place to sleep in another house. She was in a pitiable condition and made the Earls smile by asking that word be sent to Fr. Higgins of Babylon, L. I., that she wanted him to witness her will. She wanted to make one, she said, because relatives were trying to get her wealth. She left the next day and nothing was heard of her until she was sent to the hospital.

TO ROB SAFE

TWO ATTEMPTS MADE AT ASHAWAY, R. I.

ASHAWAY, R. I., July 12.—Two attempts were made to blow open the safe in the Ashaway National bank building here early this morning but the men were frightened away by the loud reports and secured nothing. Towns people were awakened by two heavy explosions between 1 and 2 o'clock this morning and some of them looked out their windows to see what was the matter. The sight of a man standing in front of the bank building with a brace of drawn pistols kept anyone from trying to go outside. Some three hours later an investigation was made and it was found that the outer door of the safe was twisted and torn but that the three inner doors were intact. Burglar tools of the finest quality were scattered around the door. The bank officials would not say how much money was in the vault but they admitted that there was over $5000.

ANITA STEWART, WHO IS TO WED PRINCE MIGUEL OF PORTUGAL

LONDON, July 12.—The Austrian Princess Beatrix was born at Richman, Lower Austria, on Sept. 22, 1857. She is the daughter of Prince Michael of Baden, son of Duke Michael, the president of the Portuguese throne, to whom she married in 1877. Miss Anita Stewart, daughter of Mrs. James Henry Smith of New York, James Henry Smith is the grandson of King Miguel of Portugal. His name Smith, known far and wide as well as has been mentioned in connection with the other American lawyers in the case, is an old name. Prince Miguel, of an estate estimated at about $200,000.

PRES. TAFT WILL MAKE EXTENDED WESTERN TRIP THIS FALL

WASHINGTON, July 12.—Indications multiply that President Taft's announced itinerary for his western and southern trip this fall will be materially extended. The president himself did not include in the tentative list which was published all of the places where he expected to stop long enough to make an address and hold a brief car-end reception. The itinerary was made up of those cities where the president will spend from one to three days.

Strong efforts will be made by congressional and state officials to have the president stop, for a few minutes, at least, at nearly all of the towns of appreciable size through which his train will pass in the daylight hours. Already the president has been bombarded with such requests. He has suggested to all of his callers and correspondents that they take the matter up with him later in the summer when the plans for the trip are actually under consideration.

During the trips he has made thus far, the president has adhered to the policy of journeying in a single private car attached to regular trains. The trips have been comparatively short, however, and so that the president has been bothered with as little public business as possible.

Secretary Carpenter has remained behind in the White House to look after routine affairs and has communicated with the president at rare intervals.

On his far-western trip, a special will be absolutely essential if the president is to make stops at any of the smaller cities which dot the way between the larger centres of population, which he already has announced his intention of visiting.

The president expects to be away for two months on this trip and will have to carry a complement of stenographers, clerks and telegraphers in addition to his secretaries. Thus far the presidential party has been confined to the chief executive, Captain Archibald W. Butt, his military aide; Assistant Secretary Mischler, Maj. Arthur Brooks, who, in addition to being the president's confidential messenger, is commander in chief of the first separate battalion of colored troops in the District of Columbia; and two secret service men—James Shan, who was with President Roosevelt for seven years, and "Jack" Wheeler, who accompanied Mr. Taft from the time of his election to office.
